It's time to open doors for SIR

SIR begins in Karnataka on Wednesday; 5.54 crore voters, spread across 34 electoral districts in the state, will be verified for electoral roll revision; the exercise is being carried out after a 24-year-gap.

BENGALURU

The Election Commission (EC) on Tuesday began the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in Karnataka, deploying around 59,000 Booth Level Officers (BLOs) for a month-long door-to-door exercise, even as the ruling Congress raised concerns over certain aspects of the process and sought clarifications from the poll panel.

'46.52 lakh electors remain unmapped'

Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) V Anbu Kumar said 59,050 BLOs would distribute enumeration forms and conduct house-to-house verification across the state until July 29.

He said the EC has so far mapped 5.07 crore electors, accounting for 91.61% of Karnataka's 5.54 crore voters, after comparing legacy and current electoral rolls. The remaining 46.53 lakh electors are yet to be mapped, with the exercise continuing.

Kumar clarified that voters would not be required to furnish any documents during the present phase of the revision. They only need to fill up the enumeration forms and submit them. In cases where an elector is unavailable, an adult member of the family may sign the form on the person's behalf, he added.

The draft electoral rolls will be published on August 5, after which claims and objections can be filed until September 9. The EC will dispose of all claims and objections by October 3 before publishing the final electoral rolls on October 7.

Min seeks clarity on 'logical discrepancies'

Ahead of the exercise, Home Minister Priyank Kharge said the Congress had sought clarification from the EC and the CEO on what he termed "logical discrepancies" in the revision process but had not received any response.

"We sought clarity on logical discrepancy, on the criteria to exempt people from the voter list. But there is no response," he said. While saying revision of electoral rolls was within the EC's mandate, he alleged that similar exercises carried out in Tamil Nadu, Kerala and West Bengal had deprived poor voters of their rights.

Industries Minister MB Patil also alleged that the BJP was attempting to use the revision exercise to remove voters supporting the Congress in 97 Assembly constituencies.

Parties educate voters

The Congress has constituted monitoring committees at the state, divisional and district levels to oversee the revision exercise and has conducted awareness programmes across Karnataka over the past few weeks. The BJP has also organised workshops for its workers in preparation for the electoral roll revision.

CM kicks off voter list revision drive

Bengaluru: Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Tuesday launched the SIR of electoral rolls by filling out the enumeration form at his residence in Sadashivanagar, formally marking the beginning of the campaign in the state. Bengaluru South Deputy Commissioner Yashwanth Gurukar was present on the occasion.

Irrespective of mapping, electors' names continue to be in the rolls based on the 2002 and 2025 data. Mapping will continue till the draft electoral roll is published on August 5, 2026.

Cong moves privilege notice against Rajnath

New Delhi: Senior Congress MP KC Venugopal on Tuesday submitted a breach of privilege notice against Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, accusing him of misleading Parliament on the military casualties during the Operation Sindoor.

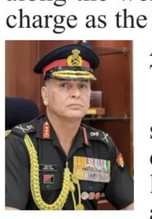
Venugopal, also the Public Accounts Committee (PAC) chairman, shot off a letter to Speaker Om Birla, claiming that Singh told the Lok Sabha on July 28 last year that no soldier was killed in the Operation Sindoor. However, he said, a recent statement showed the names of six personnel who died in the operation.

The position "clearly indicates that the Minister of Defence, while stating on the floor of the House that there had been no casualties during Op Sindoor, was clearly misleading or incorrect", he said.

"It is well established that misleading the House or withholding information from the House by a minister on the floor of the House constitutes a breach of privilege and contempt of the House," he said seeking initiation of breach of privilege proceedings against Singh.

Gen Seth takes charge as Army Chief

New Delhi: General Dhiraj Seth, an accomplished military officer with the rare distinction of heading two operational Army commands along the western front, took charge as the new Chief of the Army Staff on Tuesday.



Gen Seth assumed the reins of the 1.3 million-strong force at a time when it is forging a path to become a self-reliant and future-ready Army while meeting challenges on the borders.

The general officer succeeded General Upendra Dwivedi, who retired on Tuesday after an illustrious career spanning over 40 years in the armed forces. Gen Seth is an alumnus of the National Defence Academy (NDA), Khadakwasla. He was commissioned into the Armoured Corps in December 1986. Prior to becoming the 31st Chief of the Army Staff (COAS), he served as the Vice Chief of the Army Staff.

Gen Seth took over as the COAS at a time when the global geo-strategic environment remains dynamic, with challenges in the security domain becoming more pronounced due to technological advancements and the ever-changing character of modern warfare.

'We'll cut off hands that...': Pak min threatens India over Indus waters

ISLAMABAD

Less than a week after Pakistan's Defence Minister Khawaja Asif threatened India with military aggression over the Indus Waters Treaty, another Pakistani Minister has said they will "cut off those hands" that seek to claim Islamabad's share of water under the agreement.

The fresh threat came from Pakistan's Climate Change Minister Musadik Malik, adding more fuel to the tensions over the decades-old water-sharing pact that India decided to keep in abeyance following the 2025 Pahalgam terror attack, in which 26 people were killed.

Addressing a press conference, Malik alleged that India controlled Pakistan's share of water, claiming that they would not let anyone obstruct the water.

"There is a tap being controlled by the Prime Minister of a neighbouring country. He says he will not let even a drop of water flow into Pakistan," Malik said. He added that 40-50% of Pakistan's population depended on agriculture for survival. He claimed that Pakistan had "already declared that anyone trying to deprive it of its water would face severe consequences".

REBELLION IN THE RANKS

Leaked audio exposes cracks in saffron camp

Shyam Sundar Vattam, CH NEWS

The simmering discontent within the Karnataka unit of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) has burst into the open, exposing deep cracks in the saffron camp and raising serious questions over the leadership of state BJP president BY Vijayendra and Leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Assembly R Ashoka.

What was once confined to hushed conversations behind closed doors has now become public discourse. The leaked audio clip, purportedly featuring a former Chief Minister and a senior BJP functionary discussing the need to remove Vijayendra from the state president's post, has sent shockwaves through the party and embarrassed the national leadership.

"This is no longer a whisper campaign. The rebellion has found a voice," remarked a senior BJP leader on condition of anonymity. "The leadership cannot pretend that everything is normal anymore."

Several leaders, particularly from the old guard, are said to be unhappy with the current power structure, arguing that both Vijayendra and Ashoka have failed to provide effective political direction. The party's inability to win a single Assembly by-election under the present leadership and the recent cross-voting by BJP legislators in the biennial Legislative Council elections have only strengthened the perception that the leadership has lost its grip over the organisation.

DV Sadananda Gowda | BY Vijayendra | R Ashoka

Several leaders, particularly from the old guard, are said to be unhappy with the current power structure, arguing that both Vijayendra and Ashoka have failed to provide effective political direction.

"The bypoll defeats and cross-voting are not isolated incidents—they are symptoms of a deeper organisational illness," observed another senior leader.

Factionalism has emerged as the biggest headache for the Karnataka BJP, with leaders increasingly aligning themselves with individual power centres rather than the party organisation. Insiders admit that directives issued by the party's state president are often ignored or implemented half-heartedly.

"Groupism has reached alarming proportions. Many leaders are functioning independently, and discipline has become the biggest casualty," a party insider said.

Veteran leaders have reportedly conveyed their concerns to the BJP central leadership on multiple occasions, urging immediate intervention before the internal discord inflicts lasting electoral damage. However, many in the state unit privately complain that the central leadership appears preoccupied with national issues, allowing Karnataka's problems to fester.

Despite the visible turmoil, sections of the BJP remain confident that anti-incumbency against the Congress government will pave the way for a comeback in the 2028 Assembly elections. Yet political observers warn that such optimism may be misplaced.

"If the BJP believes anti-incumbency alone will deliver victory, it is living in a fool's paradise," said a political analyst. "Unless the leadership douses the fire raging within its own house, the Congress could well benefit from the BJP's internal battle and secure another term."

For Karnataka BJP, the challenge is no longer just taking on the Congress—it is first restoring unity within its own saffron ranks.

'Ethanol blending an experiment, results likely next year'

NEW DELHI

The Centre on Tuesday told the Supreme Court that its 20% ethanol blending programme in petrol is still an "ongoing experiment" and that the full impact of the policy is expected to become clear only next year.

Attorney General R Venkataramani, appearing for the Centre and Bharat Petroleum Corporation Limited (BPCL), said this during a hearing on a dispute over ethanol supply allocation for 2025-26.

His remarks come amid an ongoing debate over the ethanol blending programme, with critics raising concerns that higher ethanol content could affect older vehicles and reduce fuel efficiency. The government, however, has consistently defended the initiative, saying it is aimed at improving energy security, reducing dependence on imported crude oil, cutting emissions and boosting farmers' incomes.

The Supreme Court directed that the status quo be maintained on supply allocation for the ethanol supply year 2025-26 while hearing BPCL's appeal against a Karnataka High Court order.

A vacation bench also issued notices to the Union government and 23 distilleries on BPCL's appeal challenging the high court's directions.

State rolls out 'Operation RISE', 'Beda Bro' to curb menace

BENGALURU

The Karnataka government on Tuesday launched two major anti-drug initiatives—Operation RISE and the 'Beda Bro' awareness campaign—to intensify its fight against narcotics and make the state drug-free.

The initiatives focus on stricter enforcement, public awareness and rehabilitation. Operation RISE will strengthen coordinated action against drug trafficking, while the youth-centric 'Beda Bro' campaign will educate young people about the harmful effects of substance abuse through workshops, social media outreach and community programmes.

The government also announced the destruction of 4,276.405 kg of seized narcotics worth about Rs. 97.90 crore after obtaining court approval.

Official data showed that drugs worth Rs. 216.93 crore were seized in 2025, while seizures worth Rs. 184.72 crore were made between January and May 2026. The government reiterated its zero-tolerance policy and pledged to continue coordinated efforts involving police, educational institutions and civil society to eliminate drug abuse.

CM: Resume Bandipur-Nagarahole safaris with strict safety measures

Bengaluru: Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Tuesday directed officials to resume safari and eco-tourism activities in Bandipur and Nagarahole national parks with appropriate safety measures in place.

He issued the directive during a meeting of the Standing Committee of the Karnataka State Wildlife Board at Vidhana Soudha.

The CM is the chairman of the wildlife board. Officials informed the meeting that tiger and leopard densities were higher in the eco-tourism and safari zones of Bandipur and Nagarahole than in areas witnessing high levels of human-wildlife conflict.

"In this context, the CM directed that safari activities be resumed by strictly following the necessary precautionary and safety measures so that there is no compromise on the safety of tourists," the CMO said in a statement. At the meeting, officials said the construction of the Bengaluru–Mysore Infrastructure Corridor had obstructed the traditional movement routes of elephants, tigers and leopards.

"As a result, wildlife is moving out of forest areas into the Channapatna and Ramanagara regions, which is also a major reason for the increase in human-wildlife conflict," the CMO said.

Officials informed the meeting that when permission was granted for the construction of the Bengaluru–Mysuru Expressway, it was subject to the condition that the required underpasses, overpasses and wildlife corridors be built to facilitate the safe movement of wildlife.

Mekedatu: 'Examine, resolve if any tech issues'

The CM noted that Tamil Nadu was attempting to raise objections before the Supreme Court over the Mekedatu Project by citing "minor technical issues." He directed officials to examine whether such technical issues exist and resolve them effectively. The project involves constructing a dam on the Cauvery river near its confluence with the Arkavathi.

State BJP issues will be resolved in two months: Suresh Gowda

CH NEWS, BENGALURU
The confusion within the Karnataka BJP will be resolved within the next two months, as the party's high command is expected to take decisive steps, MLA Suresh Gowda said on Tuesday. Responding to questions about the alleged audio clip linked to former Chief Minister Sadananda Gowda, he noted that Sadananda Gowda had himself denied the audio was his, leaving nothing further to comment on. Suresh Gowda described the recent cross-voting episode as a turning point that would help end internal differences. He expressed confidence that the BJP high command would restore unity and strengthen the party. He also dismissed Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar's chief ministerial ambitions as "daydreaming" and predicted the BJP-JD(S) alliance would win 175 seats in the 2028 Assembly elections.

JD(S), BJP seek FIR against Pradeep Eshwar

CH NEWS, BENGALURU
The JD(S) and BJP have demanded that the Karnataka government register an FIR against Congress MLA Pradeep Eshwar over the slipper-hurling incident during the Kempegowda Jayanti celebrations in Chikkaballapur. JD(S) Youth Wing president Nikhil Kumaraswamy accused the government of practising targeted politics after nine persons linked to the JD(S) and BJP were arrested. He alleged that the MLA had instigated the crowd and urged the government to file a case against him. BJP MP K. Sudhakar also sought an FIR against those who allegedly provoked the gathering and disrespected Bengaluru founder Kempegowda, demanding that Pradeep Eshwar be named as Accused No. 1 in the case.

HC issues notices on plea against Turf Club relocation

CH NEWS, BENGALURU
The Karnataka High Court has issued notices to the state and central governments on a public interest litigation (PIL) challenging the proposed relocation of the Bengaluru Turf Club (BTC) to the 457-acre Kunigal Stud Farm. A division bench comprising Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice K.S. Hemalekha also issued notices to the National Biodiversity Board, Karnataka State Biodiversity Board and the BTC. The PIL, filed by Bengaluru resident Vijay Nishanth, contends that the historic Kunigal Stud Farm, dating back to the era of Tipu Sultan, is an ecologically sensitive area. It argues that introducing racing and commercial activities would fragment its ecosystem and cause irreversible environmental damage.

Bengaluru's dog shelter plan faces hurdles as NGOs raise design, staffing concerns

NGOs cite staffing shortages, shelter design flaws, and regulatory concerns over project implementation

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Greater Bengaluru Authority's (GBA) ambitious plan to relocate stray dogs from institutional areas into dedicated shelters by the end of July has encountered fresh challenges, with animal welfare organisations expressing reluctance to take up shelter management due to operational and infrastructural concerns.

While GBA officials remain optimistic about commencing the relocation drive, NGOs experienced in implementing Animal Birth Control (ABC) programmes have shown limited interest in participating in the tender process. The primary concerns include a shortage of trained personnel, uncertainty over compliance with pollution control norms, and the practicality of the shelter design.

A senior GBA official said the responsibility for appointing agencies to manage the shelters rests with the five newly formed city corporations. "The GBA is not involved in selecting the agencies. We are only monitoring the progress of the tender process and receiving periodic updates from the corporations," the official said.

According to the official, shelters in the North and South City Corporations have already been completed, while construction is progressing in the Central and West City Corporations. At least four corporations are expected to begin relocating stray dogs by the end of July.

However, NGOs remain

unconvinced. Representatives from several organisations said the shelter layout itself has become a major deterrent. They argued that any assessment of the proposed facilities should involve experts from veterinary science, environmental management, engineering and public health to ensure the shelters are both functional and compliant with animal welfare standards.

They also pointed out that operating large shelters requires a steady workforce, veterinary support and strict waste management systems, all of which remain difficult to guarantee under the current framework.

Bengaluru North City Corporation Commissioner Pommala Sunil Kumar said the dog shelter at Medi Agrahara has been completed and that the corporation is in the final stages of appointing an agency to operate it.

"We have received only one bidder and expect to issue the work order within a day or two," he said.

Sunil Kumar noted that the corporation has been receiving frequent complaints from residents seeking the relocation of aggressive stray dogs. Besides accommodating dogs shifted from institutional areas, the shelters will also be used to monitor and manage dogs displaying aggressive behaviour.

He acknowledged that some animal welfare activists have opposed the relocation programme, questioning whether the identified dogs are genuinely aggressive. Nevertheless, the corporation is attempting to balance public safety concerns with animal welfare obligations.

With tenders yet to attract wider participation and operational concerns remaining unresolved, the success of Bengaluru's stray dog relocation initiative will depend not only on constructing shelters but also on establishing a sustainable management system capable of addressing both civic and animal welfare needs.

High Court to hear tunnel road PILs on July 6

CH NEWS
BENGALURU
The Karnataka High Court has scheduled July 6 for the final hearing of a batch of public interest litigations (PILs) challenging the state government's proposed tunnel road project connecting Hebbal and Silk Board in Bengaluru.

A division bench comprising Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice K.S. Hemalekha fixed the date while hearing petitions filed by actor-director Prakash Belawadi, former bureaucrat Dr. A. Ravindra, the Citizen Action Forum and others.

During Tuesday's hearing, counsel for the petitioners, along with lawyers representing Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Surya, informed the court that the government was proposing to acquire around five acres of Lalbagh Botanical Garden for the tunnel alignment.

They argued that such acquisition would cause irreversible damage to the historic and ecologically sensitive heritage site and sought an interim stay on the project.

The bench, however, observed that it did not have sufficient time to hear the matter in detail and adjourned the case to July 6. Petitioners requested the court to maintain status quo until then, following which the bench granted an early hearing date.

At an earlier hearing, the High Court had issued notices to the state government, the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA), the State Environmental Impact Assessment Authority (SEIAA), the Directorate of Urban Land Transport (DULT), Bengaluru Smart Infrastructure Limited (B-SMILE), Radik Consultants and Altinok Consultants, among other respondents.

The bench had also suggested obtaining the opinion of the Geological Survey of India (GSI) regarding the feasibility and risks of constructing an underground tunnel beneath environmentally sensitive areas, including Lalbagh Botanical Garden.

Basavaraj during the hearing of petitions filed by Kulkarni and former MLA Chandrashekhar Indi, who are serving life sentences in the murder case and have sought suspension of their sentences and release on bail pending appeal.Appearing for the CBI, Additional Solicitor General S.V. Coimbatore-Mumbai Express gets Yelahanka stop, mega railway terminal planned

Union Minister of State for Railways and Jal Shakti V. Somanna on Tuesday flagged off the inaugural halt of the Coimbatore-Lokmanya Tilak Terminus (Mumbai)-Coimbatore Express at Yelahanka railway station, marking a significant boost to rail connectivity for the rapidly expanding northern Bengaluru suburb.

Speaking at the event, Somanna said the new halt would benefit thousands of passengers from Yelahanka and surrounding areas by providing direct access to one of the important long-distance trains operating between Karnataka and Maharashtra.

Highlighting the area's rapid urban growth, the minister announced that Indian Railways is planning to establish a mega railway terminal at Yelahanka. The proposed terminal is expected to reduce the burden on Bengaluru's existing railway stations, particularly Krantivira Sangolli Rayanna (Bengaluru City), Yeshwantpur and Bengaluru Cantonment stations, which currently handle heavy passenger traffic.

He also said Bengaluru Cantonment and Yeshwantpur railway stations are being upgraded to world-class standards as part of Indian Railways' station redevelopment programme.

Somanna said infrastructure development remains a priority for the Railways, adding that the Bengaluru Cantonment-Whitefield quadrilateral rail project is progressing steadily. He further stated that Indian Railways is working towards the phased elimination of all level crossings to improve passenger and road safety.

The minister also announced a proposal for a new direct railway line connecting Whitefield and Kolar via Hoskote, which is expected to improve connectivity to the eastern parts of Bengaluru and neighbouring districts.

As per the revised timetable, Train No. 11013 Lokmanya Tilak Terminus-Coimbatore Express will arrive at Yelahanka railway station at 7.28 p.m. and depart at 7.30 p.m. from June 30 onwards. The corresponding Coimbatore-Lokmanya Tilak Terminus service will also halt at the station, benefiting regular commuters and long-distance travellers.

Yelahanka MLA S.R. Vishwanath thanked the Railway Minister for approving the additional stop and said it fulfilled a long-pending demand of local residents. Rajya Sabha member Lehar Singh Siroya and Bengaluru Division Additional Divisional Railway Manager Parikshit Mohanpuria were also present at the programme.

More train halts sought-Chikkaballapur MP Dr. K. Sudhakar welcomed the decision, saying the new halt would greatly benefit students, employees, professionals and other passengers travelling from Yelahanka and nearby localities.

Considering the area's rapid expansion, he urged the Railway Ministry to provide halts for more long-distance trains at Yelahanka. He also requested the speedy completion of land acquisition for the sanctioned Chikkabanavara-Gollahalli and Soladevanahalli Road Overbridge (ROB) projects to improve connectivity and ease traffic congestion.

CBSE students urge KEA to accept revaluation marks for CET rankings

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Several Class 12 students of the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) have urged the Karnataka Examinations Authority (KEA) to consider their revised board examination marks after revaluation while calculating Common Entrance Test (CET) ranks, arguing that the updated scores could significantly improve their admission prospects.

Under the current admission formula, CET ranks are determined by giving equal weightage to Class 12 marks and CET scores. However, KEA prepared the rank list using the original CBSE results released before the completion of the revaluation process.

The demand comes in the wake of widespread complaints over discrepancies in the initial CBSE results, which students attributed to the board's on-screen evaluation process. Many candidates secured higher marks after their answer scripts were re-evaluated.

Parents said the revised marks could substantially improve their children's CET rankings and enhance their chances of securing seats in preferred engineering and professional colleges.

"My daughter received two additional marks after revaluation. Even a small increase can make a significant difference in CET rankings," a parent said, urging KEA to revise the merit list.

Another parent argued that the issue was not comparable to improvement examinations, as the revised marks resulted from correction of evaluation errors rather than fresh attempts by students. They also pointed out that Tamil Nadu delayed its merit list preparation to incorporate CBSE revaluation results.

Parents further noted that while Karnataka considered II PUC Exam-2 marks for state board students in preparing CET rankings, CBSE students whose marks improved after revaluation were not extended similar consideration.

KEA, however, maintained that it has no provision to revise CET rankings based on revaluated board examination marks. Executive Director H. Prasanna said such a revision would not be feasible as the option-entry process for counselling has already commenced.

This year's CET results saw a majority of top ranks going to Karnataka PU board students, with CBSE candidates generally scoring lower in the initial board evaluation.

Meanwhile, KEA said it has received the seat matrix for all professional courses except B.Pharm, Pharm.D, and Yoga and Naturopathy programmes, for which approval is awaited from the Health and Family Welfare Department.

SETBACK FOR EARNING WIFE

HC denies maintenance to wife earning more than husband

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has ruled that a financially independent wife earning more than her husband is not entitled to maintenance merely because she is a woman. Setting aside a trial court's order, the High Court quashed the direction requiring a husband to pay his wife interim maintenance of Rs. 20,000 per month.

Justice Dr. Chillakur Sumalatha passed the order while allowing a petition filed by the husband challenging the trial court's maintenance award.

The court observed that maintenance cannot be granted based on gender-based assumptions that a husband must invariably support his wife. Instead, courts must examine the financial circumstances of both parties before awarding interim or permanent maintenance.

It held that where a wife is financially stable, earns more than her husband and has no additional responsibilities such as caring for children, there is no justification for directing the husband to pay maintenance.

The judgment stressed that family courts should not be influenced by the traditional notion that wives must always be maintained by their husbands. Maintenance, the court said, should be awarded only when it is established that the wife lacks sufficient financial resources to support herself.

Referring to the facts of the case, the bench noted that the wife had admitted to earning about Rs. 1 lakh per month, while the husband drew a monthly salary of Rs. 60,646. Given her higher income, the court said she was capable of maintaining herself and that directing the husband to pay Rs. 20,000 every month was legally unsustainable.

"The court should not proceed to award maintenance solely on the assumption that men are bound to maintain women," the judgment observed, adding that the financial capacity and needs of both spouses must remain the determining factors.

The dispute arose after the couple, who married in 2024, began living separately within a few months due to matrimonial differences. The wife subsequently approached the trial court seeking maintenance, which resulted in an order directing the husband to pay Rs. 20,000 per month.

Challenging the order, the husband contended that his wife's income exceeded his own and that she was financially self-sufficient. Accepting his argument, the High Court set aside the interim maintenance order.

However, the court clarified that its ruling pertains only to interim maintenance and will not influence the final adjudication of the matrimonial dispute, which will be decided independently by the trial court based on the evidence presented by both parties.

No move to replace BJP Chief Vijayendra: Chavan

Prabhu Chavan backs Vijayendra, denies leadership change in Karnataka BJP, and demands action over cross-voting issue

YADGIR

Former Karnataka minister Prabhu Chavan has asserted that there is no proposal to replace B. Y. Vijayendra as the state BJP president, stating that the party's organisational rules provide a fixed three-year tenure for the post.

Speaking to reporters in Yadgir, Chavan responded to reports linked to an alleged audio conversation involving former Chief Minister D. V. Sadananda Gowda regarding internal leadership discussions. He dismissed speculation over a change in state leadership and expressed strong support for Vijayendra.

Chavan said Vijayendra has played a key role in strengthening the party since assuming office. He described him as a young and dynamic leader who has extensively toured Karnataka and worked to reorganise the party at the grassroots level. According to him, these efforts have helped improve the organisational strength of the BJP in the state.He further clarified that as per BJP's internal structure, once a state president is elected, the position cannot be changed arbitrarily before completing a three-year term. Therefore, he said, rumours about leadership change are unnecessary and baseless.

Referring to the recent Karnataka Legislative Council elections, Chavan expressed concern over alleged cross-voting, calling it a serious breach of party discipline. He said the incident had caused disappointment within the party and described it as a betrayal of trust.

He demanded a thorough inquiry to identify those responsible for cross-voting and called for strict disciplinary action against them. Chavan said individuals found guilty of acting against the party's interests should be expelled to maintain organisational discipline.

He stressed that internal discipline is essential for the party's strength and urged the leadership to take firm action against indiscipline. According to him, only strong corrective measures would help prevent such incidents in the future and ensure unity within the organisation.

Party leaders, he added, must work collectively to reinforce discipline and strengthen the BJP's position across Karnataka ahead of future political challenges.

Witnesses protest against SIR voter revision exercise

Bidar activists protest SIR electoral roll revision, alleging voter exclusion risks and demanding withdrawal of the exercise, submitting memorandum to Election Commission through officials.

BIDAR

A protest was held in Bidar on Tuesday against the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls, with participants alleging that the exercise could lead to the exclusion of eligible voters from the electoral list.

Members of the SIR Protest Committee along with activists of the Eddelu Karnataka organisation gathered in front of the Deputy Commissioner's office and raised slogans against the Election Commission of India. They expressed concern that the ongoing voter verification drive may create unnecessary hurdles for citizens and potentially affect their right to vote.

The protesters submitted a memorandum addressed to the Chief Election Commissioner through the Deputy Commissioner, demanding the immediate withdrawal of the SIR exercise. They argued that the process, in its current form, could result in the deletion of genuine voters from the electoral rolls.Speaking during the protest, SIR Protest Committee district convener Shrikant Swamy said the Special Intensive Revision could impose difficulties on voters and risk disenfranchising eligible citizens. He urged the Election Commission to reconsider the exercise and ensure that no legitimate voter is left out during the revision process.

Protesters maintained that while electoral roll updates are necessary, they must be carried out in a way that fully protects the constitutional right of citizens to vote. They insisted that the SIR exercise should be withdrawn immediately and replaced with a more transparent and voter-friendly mechanism.

Despite strong slogans and criticism of the Election Commission, the demonstration remained peaceful throughout. After the protest, the memorandum was formally handed over to district administration officials for onward transmission to the Chief Election Commissioner.

Officials received the representation, and the protest concluded without any untoward incidents, according to sources.

They bathed and decorated their bulls with colourful paints, bells, ornaments, and traditional accessories before offering special prayers seeking good rainfall, prosperity, and a successful agricultural season.

The decorated bulls, symbolising the deep bond between farmers and cattle, attracted large crowds who gathered to witness the festive display. Many young farmers also expressed admiration for political leaders, social figures, and film personalities by painting names and portraits on their bulls.

In one instance, Lingaraj Master, a member of the Aaradhana Committee, displayed support for Chief Minister Siddaramaiah by painting the slogan "Jai Siddaramaiah" on a bull, drawing attention from onlookers.

In the evening, a traditional Kumbha procession was carried out from the Hoogar community's residence near Dugganakatte to Agasi. As the procession concluded, several bulls were ceremonially raced as part of long-standing local customs, marking one of the main highlights of the festival.

BJP leader alleges tender and political irregularities

KALABURAGI

BJP leader Shivaraj Patil Raddewadagi has made serious allegations against the ruling establishment in Jewargi taluk, claiming that irregularities in political functioning and government tender processes are taking place in the region.

Addressing a press conference in Kalaburagi on Monday, Patil alleged that when he raised questions regarding these issues, attempts were made to influence him through close associates by offering inducements, both directly and indirectly. He claimed that such actions reflect a deeper pattern of corruption and misuse of power.

Patil further alleged that development activities in Jewargi have come to a standstill, describing the situation as a "mirage." He said farmers are facing difficulties in accessing fertilizers, students are struggling due to a shortage of hostel facilities, and several roads in the constituency remain in poor condition.

He also alleged that the constituency is being managed more by the MLA's personal assistants and close associates than by the elected representative himself, raising concerns about transparency and governance.

Highlighting infrastructure issues, Patil said the Kalyana Karnataka Region Development Board (KKRDB) had invited tenders in January for eight road development projects in the taluk. However, he claimed that even after seven months, the tenders had not been opened, leading to delays in implementation.

He further alleged that pressure was being exerted on eligible contractors and that attempts were being made to manipulate the tender process to benefit select supporters of the ruling party. He also named officials, including engineers at various levels, alleging their involvement in the process.

Patil additionally raised allegations regarding two cement concrete road projects at Kallahangarga, valued at ₹25 crore and ₹75 crore, claiming that payments were released without actual execution of work.

The investigation revealed a large-scale scam carried out over nearly six years, spanning the 2020–21 to 2025–26 sugarcane crushing seasons.

According to police, employees working in the sugarcane weighing section allegedly colluded with associates to create fake sugarcane supply records and fraudulent payment bills.

Villagers stage road blockade over water crisis

BIDAR

Residents of Morambi village in Bhalki taluk staged a road blockade on the Bhalki–Basavakalyan main road, protesting against severe drinking water scarcity in the village over the past several days.

The protest was largely led by women who arrived at the site carrying empty pots to highlight the daily hardships faced due to irregular water supply. The blockade disrupted vehicular movement on the busy stretch, affecting both government and private transport for some time and leading to traffic congestion.

After staging the protest, the villagers marched to the Morambi Gram Panchayat office and expressed their anger over the failure of the local administration to ensure consistent drinking water supply. They alleged that repeated appeals to the panchayat authorities had gone unanswered, forcing residents to struggle for basic water needs.

The Panchayat Development Officer (PDO) later visited the protest site and held discussions with the agitating villagers. During the talks, protesters questioned officials about the delay in addressing the issue.

The officer assured the villagers that immediate temporary arrangements would be made to supply drinking water. He also promised that a new motor pump would be installed within two to three days, which would help provide a permanent solution to the crisis.

Following these assurances, the villagers called off their protest and restored normal traffic movement on the road. However, residents warned that they would resume agitation if the promised solutions were not implemented within the given timeframe.

Officials said efforts are underway to stabilize the water supply system and prevent further disruption in the coming days.

KALABURAGI

The traditional Karahunnime festival was celebrated with great enthusiasm and religious fervour across Jewargi town and surrounding areas of Kalaburagi district on Tuesday, with farmers taking part in age-old customs and cultural practices that mark the annual rural thanksgiving celebration.

The festivities began in the morning when farmers gathered at the premises of the Shanmukha Shivayogi Virakta Mutt and the Beeralingeshwara Temple near Kanakadasa Circle in Jewargi. The decorated bulls, symbolising the deep bond between farmers and livestock, became the centre of attraction as large crowds gathered to witness the celebrations. The event reflected the strong cultural connection between agriculture and cattle rearing in North Karnataka.

MODI PROMOTES BIDRIWARE

Bidri artisans thank Modi for elevating craft worldwide

BIDAR

Bidri artisans in Bidar have expressed gratitude to Prime Minister Narendra Modi after he presented a handcrafted Bidriware jewellery box to the First Lady of Seychelles during his recent official visit, calling it a proud moment for the centuries-old traditional craft.

The artisans said the diplomatic gesture has brought international attention to Bidriware, enhancing its visibility and opening up new opportunities for craftsmen associated with the heritage art form.

Mohammed Shafeeruddin, General Secretary of the Bidri Artisans' Association, said the community was delighted that the Prime Minister chose Bidriware as an official gift. He said the recognition has highlighted India's rich cultural heritage on a global platform and boosted the morale of artisans.

He added that repeated showcasing of Bidriware in international events would help expand markets and improve livelihoods of artisans. According to him, such initiatives play a crucial role in promoting traditional Indian handicrafts worldwide.

Veteran artisan Rajkumar, a Karnataka State Award winner with over 35 years of experience, also welcomed the gesture. He said his family has been involved in Bidri craftsmanship for generations and seeing the art presented on an international stage brought immense pride.

He explained that Bidriware is made using a special alloy of zinc and copper, with intricate hand-engraved designs filled with silver inlay. The craft's signature black finish is achieved using soil sourced exclusively from the historic Bidar Fort, which reacts with the metal to create its distinctive appearance while preserving the shine of silver patterns.

Artisans said this unique process makes Bidriware globally admired and culturally significant.

They added that continued recognition by national leaders would help preserve the traditional craft and encourage younger generations to pursue it.

The artisan community expressed hope that global exposure through diplomatic gifts would strengthen Bidar's identity as a centre of heritage handicrafts and support its long-term sustainability.

BJP probe struggles to identify council cross voting

12 BJP-JD(S) legislators reportedly backed Congress' 5th candidate, who won highest votes, while one vote was invalidated

SHYAM SUNDAR VATTAM, CH NEWS

The Karnataka BJP appears set to quietly draw the curtains on the embarrassing cross-voting episode in the recent biennial elections to the State Legislative Council, with the party's internal probe reportedly yielding more speculation than concrete evidence.

A fact-finding committee headed by former minister and MLC C.T. Ravi has submitted its preliminary report after examining the suspected cross-voting by legislators during the Council polls. However, party insiders admit that the inquiry has reached a dead end because the election was conducted through a secret ballot, making it virtually impossible to identify the defectors with certainty.

According to a member of the committee, nearly a dozen legislators from the BJP-JD(S) alliance are believed to have voted in favour of the Congress' fifth candidate, who stunned political observers by securing the highest number of votes among the winners. One vote was also declared invalid.

"Without documentary evidence or an open ballot, branding any MLA as a cross-voter would be politically and legally risky," a member of the inquiry committee said.

The preliminary report has been submitted to State BJP President B.Y. Vijayendra and forwarded to the party's central leadership. Sources indicate that the high command is unlikely to order a deeper investigation unless compelling new evidence surfaces.

"The report may well end up in cold storage. The leadership knows disciplinary action without proof could backfire," a senior party source remarked.

Interestingly, suspended BJP MLAs Shivaram Hebbar and S.T. Somashekar had publicly acknowledged voting for the Congress, claiming no senior BJP leader had sought their support. Beyond those admissions, the identities of the remaining suspected cross-voters remain a closely guarded mystery.

Party insiders allege that the Congress leadership, led by Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar, exploited internal divisions within the BJP and reached out to disgruntled legislators. Yet, with no verifiable evidence, these allegations remain politically explosive but legally unenforceable.

The mood within sections of the BJP suggests there is little appetite for prolonging an episode that has only exposed cracks within the Opposition ranks. "The inquiry seems to have been more about sending a message that the party acted than actually catching the rebels," another BJP functionary observed. With the secrecy of the ballot shielding the alleged dissenters and the leadership wary of triggering another round of factional tensions, the cross-voting saga appears destined to fade into the background—an uncomfortable reminder of the BJP's internal fault lines rather than a scandal likely to produce disciplinary action.

Need for open ballot system

Former minister and senior BJP leader N Mahesh opined that the biennial elections to the Legislative Council from the Legislative Assembly must be open ballot in order to avoid the social malady called cross voting. Of late, cross voting has become a big ache for the political parties as the legislators, falling prey to money and other favors, do cross voting. It is very difficult to find out those black sheep due to want of evidence. When the elections to Rajya Sabha is open ballot, why not for the Legislative Council. There is a need to bring the suitable amendments to the existing laws to make it mandate that the MLAs must show the ballot papers to their political agents to whom they voted for. This would end the menace of cross voting permanently. All political parties must ponder over this matter and take a long standing solution for this malady.

Debate on over proposal to hold Kambala during Mysuru Dasara

MYSURU

The Karnataka government's reported move to organise a Kambala, the traditional buffalo race of the coastal region, as part of this year's Mysuru Dasara celebrations has triggered widespread debate among citizens, environmentalists, farmers' organisations and progressive groups in the city.

Several organisations have expressed concern that while Kambala is an integral part of the cultural heritage of coastal Karnataka, introducing it into Mysuru's iconic Dasara festivities could affect the festival's unique historical identity and cultural legacy. They argue that Mysuru Dasara, celebrated for its royal grandeur, centuries-old traditions and global recognition, should retain its distinct character rather than incorporating events that are not historicall y associated with the festival.

Environmental issues have also emerged as a major point of contention. Activists fear that infrastructure required for hosting the event could lead to the felling of trees and damage to the local ecology. They have also questioned the expenditure of crores of rupees on arrangements for an event expected to attract large crowds, stating that such spending should be carefully evaluated in the larger public interest.

Against this backdrop, a public meeting has been convened on July 2 at 3.30 pm at Jaladarshini Guest House, Mysuru, to facilitate a broader discussion on the proposal and its possible impact on the city's heritage, environment and cultural identity.

The meeting is expected to be attended by Badagalapura Nagendra, State President of the Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha, along with other office-bearers, Major General Sudhir Ombatkere, environmental activists, Dr. Ramakrishnappa of Belavala Foundation, heritage expert Prof. N. S. Rangaraju, Ugranarasimha Gowda, leaders of progressive organisations and representatives of Kan nada organisations. Organisers have appealed to the people of Mysuru to participate in large numbers and contribute to the discussion on preserving the city's environmental balance, protecting its rich cultural heritage and safeguarding the identity and dignity of the world-renowned Nada Habba Mysuru Dasara.

The meeting is being organised under the leadership of Parashuramegowda, General Secretary of Parisarakke Navu, who said the discussion aims to arrive at a collective public opinion on the issue before any final decision is taken.

Udupi begins voter revision and safety campaign

UDUPI

The special comprehensive revision of the voters' list began in Udupi district on Tuesday with Booth Level Officers visiting houses and distributing enumeration forms to citizens. District Collector Swaroopa T.K. inspected several areas and said the main aim was to include all eligible voters in the electoral roll.

She urged people to check their details and cooperate with officials during the verification process. BLOs will continue house-to-house visits until July 29, collecting forms, documents and photographs from residents. The filled forms require voter signatures or thumb impressions. The draft voter list will be published on August 5, while objections can be submitted until September 4, and the final list is scheduled for release on October 7.

Officials also discussed steps to control drugs and tobacco use in the district. A QR code has been created for citizens to share information about drug transport, sale and usage. Collector She said details of informants would remain confidential and requested public support to make Udupi drug-free.

She instructed departments to spread awareness in schools, colleges and public places about harmful effects of drugs. Officials were asked to inspect farms, forests and medical shops regularly to prevent illegal activities. Anti-drug committees should work actively in educational institutions to protect students from addiction.

The administration also reviewed tobacco control measures under COTPA rules. Several areas including villages and wards are being encouraged to become tobacco-free zones through public participation. Authorities said tobacco causes serious health problems and awareness drives should continue. More than 33 raids have been conducted and cases registered against violations related to tobacco products. Officials said regular inspections would continue across the district to ensure compliance with the law.

The meetings were attended by senior officials including police representatives and health department officers. The district administration emphasized that cooperation from citizens is necessary for successful implementation of these programmes.

The combined efforts aim to improve voter records, protect public health and create a safer environment where every citizen can contribute towards a better future with responsibility, unity and awareness across the entire district.

Civil society groups protest SIR exercise in Mysuru

MYSURU

Members of the Janasanghatane Okkuta (People's Organisations Federation) staged a protest in front of the Deputy Commissioner's new office in Mysuru on Tuesday, condemning the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of the electoral rolls and accusing the Election Commission of adopting an undemocratic approach.

The protesters submitted a memorandum through the Deputy Commissioner to the Election Commission, urging it to respond to the four key demands earlier raised by civil society organisations to make the SIR process more democr atic, transparent and inclusive.

The organisations pointed out that they had already submitted memoranda across Karnataka on May 30 through district and taluk administrations. They also recalled inviting Ele ction Commission officials to a major protest convention held at Freedom Park in Bengaluru on June 20 to hear the concerns of civil society and explain the rationale behind the SIR exercise. Eminent writers, intellectuals, artists and theatre personalities had also written an open letter seeking clarification. The protesters alleged that the Commission had not responded either to these appeals or to a letter reportedly sent by the State Government.

Organisations claimed the Election Commission ignored memoranda, protests and appeals seeking SIR clarifications from civil society, writers, and the State Government

Condemning what they described as the Commission's "authoritarian silence," the organisations said every public institution in a democracy is accountable to citizens and has a duty to answer legitimate public questions. They alleged that the Commission's continued refusal to engage with civil society amounted to a violation of democratic principles.

As part of the statewide protest, demonstrators tied black cloth over their mouths to symbolise the Election Commission's refusal to respond to public concerns. They demanded that the Commission reconsider the SIR process and address the issues raised by civil society organisations.

The protesters also warned that if the Commission continued with what they termed an arbitrary approach, including the alleged use of "logical dependency" software to delete large numbers of voters without providing adequate time for appeals, it could trigger a statewide people's movement.

The protest was organised under the banner of the SIR Virodhi Okkuta (Anti-SIR Coalition) and was supported by representatives of the People's Union for Civil Liberties (PUCL), Mahila Munnade, Ondagon Kaijodisi, Nele Hinnele, the Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha, the Social Democratic Party of India (SDPI), the Dalit Sangharsh Samiti, and several writers, journalists, artists and theatre activists.

Those who led the protest included Kamal Gopinath, Dr Rati Rao, Dr M.P. Purnananda, K.R. Gopalakrishna, Hosur Kumar, Amjad, Devagalli Somashekar, Jenni and G.P. Basavaraju.

He spent time greeting them and enquiring about their well-being.Locals noted that the informal interactions reflected simplicity and approachability, as the MLA engaged with villagers in a relaxed manner while observing rural life closely.

HUNSUR

The State Farmers' Association and tobacco growers submitted a petition to Auction Director Srinivas B.C. at the Chilkunda Auction Platform, requesting the approval of an additional auction market to help farmers sell their tobacco without delays.

District President of the State Farmers' Association, Hosur Kumar, said the existing auction market has enough land, but farmers are facing serious difficulties because onl y one market is functioning. He urged the authorities to obtain approval from the Central Government and complete the required formalities before the next auction season begins. He requested that a new market building be constructed and made operational at the earliest for the benefit of tobacco growers. The association also raised concerns about the health fund premium provided to tobacco farmers. Members said they had been expecting a health fund of Rs.1 lakh but had not received it. Mangaluru South Assembly constituency SIR process launched

MANGALURU

The Special Intensive Revision (SIR) process of electoral rolls has been officially launched in the Mangaluru South Assembly constituency, marking the beginning of a large-scale voter list verification exercise in the region.

According to reports, the Election Commission's SIR initiative aims to ensure accurate and updated electoral rolls through house-to-house verification conducted by Booth Level Officers (BLOs). The process includes collecting enumeration forms, verifying voter details, and identifying duplicate or incorrect entries.

Officials stated that the exercise is part of a broader nationwide revision drive designed to strengthen the integrity of voter lists by removing errors, outdated entries, and ineligible names while ensuring that all eligible citizens are included.

During the launch in Mangaluru South, election officials explained the procedures to be followed during the enumeration phase and urged voters to cooperate with BLOs when they visit households. Political party representatives were also informed about the process and encouraged to appoint Booth Level Agents (BLAs) to assist in monitoring and ensuring transparency.

Public meeting held on SIR awareness campaign

SHIVAMOGGA

A public meeting was held in Shivamogga to create awareness regarding the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls, with speakers raising concerns over its implementation and alleging political motives behind the exercise.

Addressing the gathering, former minister Madhu Bangarappa claimed that the central government led by the BJP was attempting to misuse the SIR process for its own advantage. He said such concerns needed to be addressed collectively to safeguard democratic values and ensure that voter rights are not compromised.

The meeting focused on creating awareness among citizens about the ongoing voter list revision exercise being carried out by the Election Commission. Speakers explained that Booth Level Officers (BLOs) are visiting households to collect enumeration forms and verify voter details as part of the SIR process.

Concerns were also expressed about the transparency of the exercise, with participants urging vigilance to ensure that eligible voters are not excluded during the revision. Leaders at the meeting stressed the importance of community participation in monitoring the process and supporting Booth Level Agents (BLAs) appointed by political parties.

Madhu Bangarappa alleged that the BJP government at the Centre had "ulterior motives" behind the SIR initiative and called for strong public awareness campaigns to counter any potential misuse. He urged party workers and citizens to remain alert and ensure that no eligible voter is removed from the electoral rolls unfairly.

Other speakers at the meeting echoed similar concerns and emphasized the need for careful scrutiny during the voter verification process. They said that while electoral roll revision is a routine administrative exercise, it must be conducted in a transparent and impartial manner. Party workers and local leaders also participated in the discussion, highlighting the need to educate voters about their rights and the importance of correctly filling out enumeration forms. They said awareness at the grassroots level would play a key role in ensuring fair implementation of the SIR process.

The meeting concluded with a call for continued public engagement and monitoring of the voter list revision exercise across Shivamogga district.

The Disappearing Lakes of Bengaluru: A City Losing Its Lifeline

HEPSIBA.S, CH NEWS

Kempe Gowda envisioned Bengaluru, he recognised that a growing city could survive only with a strong and sustainable water management system. Nearly 1,000 interconnected man-made tanks, linked through an extensive network of rajakaluves (stormwater drains), were designed to harvest rainwater, prevent flooding and naturally recharge groundwater aquifers. These tanks once worked as a single, interconnected ecosystem, ensuring water security for the city. Today, however, much of that vision has been lost as many tanks have disappeared due to encroachment, construction debris, pollution and unscientific restoration, leaving Bengaluru to grapple with recurring water shortages and declining groundwater levels.

Ms. Noor Fathima, an environmentalist, explained that these water bodies are historically "tanks," not natural lakes, decades of encroachment, construction debris and poor urban planning have disrupted this centuries-old network, resulting in falling groundwater levels and increasing dependence on borewells. She said many restoration projects have failed because they ignore the ecological functions of these tanks.

When asked if urbanisation is the main reason for the disappearance of Bengaluru's tanks, Ms. Noor Fathima said the increasing pressure on land and water resources has been a major factor driving their decline.

Criticising the way some restoration works are carried out, Ms. Fathima said, "People come in the name of cleaning the lakes, but are only making money out of it. Very little is actually being done for the people's good or for the ecosystem." She argued that excessive desilting, cementing lake beds and other unscientific interventions often damage the natural environment instead of restoring it.

She emphasised that conservation must begin with the younger generation, urging schools and families to reconnect children with nature. "Children need to understand the value of trees, soil and water from an early age," she said, adding that environmental awareness and hands-on exposure to natural ecosystems are essential to building a generation that will protect, rather than exploit, the environment.

As Bengaluru faces recurring water shortages and declining groundwater levels, Ms. Fathima believes that protecting the city's historic tank system is no longer just an environmental concern but a necessity for ensuring the city's long-term water security.

Uddhav camp suffers setback as Ahir joins Shinde Sena

Ahir, a close aide of Aaditya Thackeray, filed his nomination for the election to the post of deputy chairman of Maha Legislative Council as Mahayuti candidate.

MUMBAI

A major political development unfolded in Maharashtra after senior legislator Sachin Ahir formally resigned from all his responsibilities within Shiv Sena (Uddhav Balasaheb Thackeray) immediately after filing his nomination papers for the post of Deputy Chairperson of the Maharashtra Legislative Council.

Ahir's move marks another significant setback for the Uddhav Thackeray-led faction as he officially joined the Shiv Sena led by Deputy Chief Minister Eknath Shinde.

In his resignation letter addressed to Uddhav Thackeray, Ahir expressed gratitude to the party leadership for entrusting him with important responsibilities over the years. He stated that he was stepping down from his positions as General Secretary of the Bharatiya Kamgar Sena and President of the Brihanmumbai BEST Kamgar Sena due to unavoidable circumstances. He requested that his resignation be accepted while conveying his best wishes for the future of the party.

Ahir's departure is considered politically significant because of his long-standing influence in Mumbai's labour unions and working-class politics.

As the head of prominent trade unions, he commanded considerable support among workers and played a vital role in strengthening the party's urban presence. His exit is expected to weaken the Thackeray faction's organisational strength in Mumbai, where labour politics continues to hold considerable electoral importance.

Political observers believe changing political realities within the Maha Vikas Aghadi alliance influenced Ahir's decision.

Many analysts suggest that concerns over his future political prospects prompted him to align with the ruling Mahayuti alliance, where he is expected to receive greater opportunities.

Speculation regarding the Shiv Sena candidate for the Deputy Chairperson's post had been widespread until Ahir unexpectedly appeared to file his nomination. The nomination process took place in the presence of Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis, Deputy Chief Minister Eknath Shinde, former Deputy Chairperson Neelam Gorhe, and State Minister Chandrakant Patil, highlighting the importance of the occasion.

Shiv Sena minister and party spokesperson Sanjay Shirsat clarified that Ahir's move was not merely a temporary political arrangement for the election but represented his formal induction into the Shinde-led Shiv Sena. According to Shirsat, Ahir had officially joined the party and would now play an active role within the organisation.

Before making his decision public, Ahir reportedly contacted Aaditya Thackeray and personally explained the reasons behind his departure. His close association with Aaditya had made him one of the most trusted leaders in the Thackeray camp, making his resignation particularly significant from a political standpoint.

Senior officials stated that all necessary arrangements have been completed to ensure the smooth, safe, and successful conduct of the two-month-long pilgrimage to the revered Amarnath cave shrine in Jammu and Kashmir.

Border Security Force Director General Praveen Kumar, accompanied by senior officers, visited several key locations along the pilgrimage route to assess the operational readiness of security personnel. NEET reforms: Kerala Assembly passes resolution

The Assembly unanimously backed sweeping examination reforms, urging stronger safeguards and greater transparency in national entrance tests nationwide.

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

The Kerala Assembly on Tuesday passed a resolution urging the Central government to undertake comprehensive reforms of the National Eligibility-cum-Entrance Test (NEET) and the country's overall national examination system.

The resolution received support from both the ruling United Democratic Front (UDF) and the opposition Left Democratic Front (LDF), while amendments proposed by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) were rejected by the House.

The resolution was introduced by Higher Education Minister Roji M. John under Rule 118 and highlighted growing concerns over the credibility of national entrance examinations. It pointed to repeated allegations of question paper leaks, examination irregularities, administrative lapses, technical failures, and shortcomings in the evaluation and publication of results. According to the Assembly, these recurring issues have weakened public confidence in the fairness, transparency, and reliability of the country's examination system.

The BJP legislature party, which has three members in the 140-member Assembly, proposed amendments requesting that the resolution acknowledge the action taken by the Central government against individuals allegedly responsible for examination-related irregularities. BJP member V. Muraleedharan argued that the Centre had responded promptly after the controversies emerged and that its efforts deserved recognition in the final text.

However, the proposed amendments were put to a vote and defeated by the Assembly. Following their rejection, the original resolution was adopted with the combined support of the Congress-led UDF and the Communist Party of India (Marxist)-led LDF. The UDF currently holds 102 seats in the Assembly, while the LDF has 35 members.

The resolution stated that repeated controversies surrounding NEET have created widespread anxiety among students and parents across the country. It observed that years of hard work by millions of aspirants, including students from Kerala, have been jeopardized by examination malpractices and administrative shortcomings. The Assembly maintained that such failures conflict with the constitutional principles of equal opportunity and social justice.

The resolution also noted that similar concerns have emerged in several other national-level examinations conducted by the National Testing Agency, including undergraduate entrance examinations and research eligibility tests.

In addition, it referred to recruitment examinations conducted by agencies such as the Staff Selection Commission and the Railway Recruitment Board, stating that repeated controversies indicate deeper structural and administrative weaknesses within the national examination framework.

BJP prez Nabin urges Telangana BJP cadres to take people's issues to streets

HYDERABAD

BJP national president Nitin Nabin on Tuesday called on the party cadres in Telangana to gear up to take people's issues to the streets to bring the party to power in the state in 2028.

Addressing the party's state executive meeting on the last day of his three-day visit to Telangana, he told the party leaders that if a change is to be brought in Telangana, they have to raise people's voice on the streets.

He exuded confidence that if party leaders become the voice of the people, 2028 will belong to them and to the BJP.

Stating that the BJP showed its strong presence in Telangana by securing 35 per cent of the votes in the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, he urged the party workers to engage in even greater struggles in the years ahead.

He claimed that the overwhelming support of the people and the enthusiasm of BJP karyakartas sent a clear message that strong public support for the BJP is steadily growing across Telangana.

He recalled that out of the two MPs the BJP had in 1984, one was from Telangana. Telangana is the state where we made our 'lotus' bloom in the very early days. I believe that if our governments are currently functioning in 22 states across the country, it is because the people are ready to move forward under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, he said.

He stated that the party makes its achievements poll issues and not just the weaknesses of the Congress party. "We highlight the change that has come in the country during the last 12 years. I believe the USP of our government is precisely this: we deliver on what we promise. On the contrary, Congress never fulfils its promises."

He claimed that under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the government is working for Telangana as well. He said PM Modi had shown concern for the state's farmers. More than 30 lakh farmers are benefiting from the PM Kisan Samman Yojana, and over 33 lakh Kisan Credit Cards have been issued.

He cited the turmeric board set up in Nizamabad and highlighted the number of beneficiaries in Telangana under schemes like Ayushman Bharat. He slammed the Congress government for failure to fulfil even one of six guarantees in the last three years.

Entrepreneurship key to Meghalaya's economic transformation: Conrad Sangma

SHILLONG

Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad K. Sangma on Tuesday said entrepreneurship is the foundation of sustainable economic growth and livelihood generation as he launched the state government's Achievers of the Month programme to recognise outstanding individuals and inspire more people to take up entrepreneurial ventures.

Launching the flagship initiative in Shillong, the CM said the government's role is to create an enabling ecosystem through policies, infrastructure and institutional support, but it is entrepreneurs who ultimately drive economic progress.

Government creates the base, but it is entrepreneurship that makes the economy take off, CM Sangma said, describing entrepreneurship as the bedrock of sustainable livelihood generation and long-term economic development.

He said the initiative seeks to create a platform where achievers from diverse sectors can share their journeys, inspire others and demonstrate how government interventions have helped transform ideas into successful enterprises.

Announcing that July will be observed as a dedicated month for entrepreneurs, the Chief Minister said the government will organise storytelling sessions, public engagements and social media campaigns to showcase entrepreneurial success stories from across Meghalaya.

BLACKOUTS IGNITES STORM

Mumbai blackouts ignite political storm in Maha Assembly, Speaker steps in

MUMBAI

The worsening power crisis in South and Central Mumbai triggered a major political storm in the Maharashtra State Assembly on Tuesday, with legislators across party lines strongly confronting the government over recurring power outages lasting from eight to 12 hours.

Facing a united attack from both the ruling and Opposition benches, Assembly Speaker Rahul Narwekar took serious note of the situation and convened an emergency joint meeting to seek immediate accountability from the Brihanmumbai Electric Supply and Transport (BEST) undertaking and press for a permanent solution to the issue.

Expressing deep displeasure over the prolonged blackouts, Speaker Narwekar sharply snubbed BEST management, stating that persistent power network failures severely tarnish the reputation of Mumbai as India's commercial and financial capital. The Speaker criticised the utility for failing to preemptively upgrade its infrastructure to withstand the increased thermal stress brought on by climate change and global warming.

The Speaker criticised the utility for failing to preemptively upgrade its infrastructure to withstand the increased thermal stress brought on by climate change and global warming

He remarked that the upgradation and strengthening of the distribution network should have been taken well in advance and directed BEST officials to provide its roadmap to improve power supply in the future.

The Speaker also asked BEST to submit the report on various measures taken to resolve the technical fault and the response time taken in call centres. He has summoned an urgent meeting of the city's elected representatives, the BEST general manager, Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) commissioner, senior utility officers, and state government officials at Vidhan Bhawan, directing the administration to present a comprehensive, time-bound roadmap to fix the grid.

The legislative showdown erupted during a heated discussion on a Call Attention Motion jointly moved by Congress MLA Amin Patel (Mumbadevi) and Bharatiya Janata Party MLA Captain R Tamil Selvan (Sion Koliwada).

Selvan demanded immediate, effective steps from the administration, emphasising that ordinary citizens and small businesses are facing massive financial and physical losses due to unannounced distribution failures.

Congress' Patel launched a stinging attack on the top management's absolute apathy, alleging that neither the BEST general manager nor senior engineers bother to answer phone calls from public representatives during prolonged blackouts.

NIA arrests TMC councillor Ali in 2023 Ram Navami violence case

Sakir Ali, husband of former Arambagh TMC MP Aparupa Poddar, is accused of inciting clashes and orchestrating targeted violence in Rishra of Hooghly during the religious rituals.

KOLKATA

The National Investigation Agency (NIA) on Tuesday arrested Trinamool Congress councillor Shakir Ali in connection with its investigation into the violence that erupted during a Ram Navami procession in Rishra, located in West Bengal's Hooghly district, in 2023. The arrest marks a significant development in the probe into the communal unrest that took place during the religious procession and had drawn widespread political attention.

According to officials, the case was initially registered following reports of violence and disturbances during the Ram Navami procession in Rishra. Considering the seriousness of the incident, the investigation was later transferred to the National Investigation Agency for a detailed probe into the circumstances surrounding the violence and the alleged involvement of various individuals.

Acting on the investigation, NIA officials, accompanied by personnel from the Central Reserve Police Force, conducted a search operation at Shakir Ali's residence in Rishra on Tuesday morning. Ali, who serves as the elected councillor for Ward Number Four of the Rishra Municipality, was present at his home during the operation and was subsequently taken into custody by the investigating agency.

The arrival of central investigation officials and security personnel attracted a large number of local residents, who gathered outside the councillor's residence as the operation was underway. Shortly afterward, confirmation emerged that Ali had been formally arrested in connection with the case.

The Bharatiya Janata Party has previously alleged that the violence during the Ram Navami procession had been carried out at the instigation of Shakir Ali. The Trinamool Congress has consistently rejected such allegations. The NIA has not publicly disclosed further details regarding the specific evidence leading to the councillor's arrest, and the investigation remains ongoing.

Shakir Ali is also the husband of former Trinamool Congress Member of Parliament Aparupa Poddar, who represented the constituency for two consecutive terms. The party did not nominate her for the 2024 parliamentary elections, following which she publicly expressed disappointment, claiming that financial considerations had influenced the ticket distribution process. Despite her criticism, she announced that she would continue to remain associated with the Trinamool Congress as a dedicated party worker.

SC refuses to hear PIL seeking probe into Bhojpur encounter

New Delhi

The Supreme Court on Tuesday declined to entertain a Public Interest Litigation (PIL) seeking a court-monitored probe into the alleged 'fake' encounter killing of Bharat Bhushan Tiwari in Bihar's Bhojpur district and raising concerns over the growing trend of extra-judicial killings and half encounters. A Bench of Justices M.M. Sundresh and Sheel Nagu questioned the maintainability of the plea under Article 32 of the Constitution and asked the petitioner to pursue appropriate remedies before the jurisdictional High Court. During the hearing, advocate Vishal Tiwari, appearing as petitioner-in-person, submitted that the incident was serious and that similar petitions concerning encounter killings were already pending before the apex court.

A Bench of Justices M.M. Sundresh and Sheel Nagu sought the response of the Rajasthan government on Asaram's special leave petition (SLP) against the May 27 judgment of the Rajasthan High Court. During the hearing, senior counsel appearing for Asaram also sought his immediate release on medical grounds, citing his advanced age and deteriorating health. However, the apex court declined to grant any interim relief at this stage, observing that it would first hear the Rajasthan government's stand before considering the prayer for suspension of sentence.

Mayawati calls Ram temple embezzlement case concerning

New Delhi

Former Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister and Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) chief, Mayawati, on Tuesday reacted to reports of alleged irregularities involving offerings at the Shri Ram Temple in Ayodhya, calling the matter extremely serious and concerning while urging a transparent and accountable system for managing temple donations. In a post on X, Mayawati said, The theft of offerings from the Shri Ram Temple in Ayodhya, along with embezzlement and tampering, and the various kinds of reports that keep surfacing day after day in the media about such acts, are extremely serious and concerning. People like this should absolutely not be spared, but politicising this matter is also not right. She further stressed the need for systemic reforms in managing temple offerings to prevent recurrence of such allegations, suggesting that best practices from other major temples across the country should be adopted.

HC seeks report from cops on action taken after egg attacks on politicians

KOLKATA

A division bench of the Calcutta High Court, on Tuesday, directed the West Bengal Police to submit a report on the actions taken by the police administration in the incidents of eggs being thrown at political leaders and workers in the state since the results of the recently concluded Assembly elections were declared on June 4.

The division bench of the High Court's Acting Chief Justice Tapabrata Chakraborty and Justice Partha Sarathi Chatterjee gave this direction to the state police after hearing on public interest litigation (PIL) filed by the Trinamool Congress.

In the PIL, the petitioners accused the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) activists of throwing eggs towards Trinamool Congress leaders, including former and present elected public representatives from the party, in the presence of the police, with the cops remaining mute spectators during those egg attacks.

Hul Diwas: Jharkhand pays tribute to heroes of historic Santhal rebellion

RANCHI

Jharkhand observed Hul Diwas on Tuesday with tributes to the legendary freedom fighters Sidhu Murmu and Kanhu Murmu, who led the historic Santhal Hul rebellion against British colonial rule in 1855. The annual observance commemorates one of India's earliest and most significant tribal uprisings, which is remembered for its fearless resistance against oppression and exploitation.

Chief Minister Hemant Soren, Leader of Opposition Babulal Marandi, and several political leaders paid floral tributes to the martyrs at Sidhu-Kanhu Park in Ranchi. Similar commemorative events were organised across the state, while thousands of people gathered at Bhognadih village in Sahibganj district, the birthplace of the historic uprising, to honour the sacrifices of the tribal revolutionaries.

Speaking on the occasion, Chief Minister Hemant Soren described Hul Diwas as much more than a historical remembrance. He said it represents the enduring spirit of resistance against injustice, oppression, and exploitation. According to the Chief Minister, the rebellion demonstrated extraordinary courage at a time when marginalized communities had very limited means to challenge colonial authority.

Soren recalled the contributions of Sidhu Murmu, Kanhu Murmu, Chand Murmu, Bairab Murmu, and the courageous women freedom fighters Phulo Murmu and Jhano Murmu. He said these leaders united the Santhal community and fearlessly launched a movement against British rule without considering the personal consequences of their actions. Their struggle, he noted, continues to inspire movements across the world that seek justice, equality, and the protection of the rights of weaker sections of society.

Describing Jharkhand as a land of brave heroes, the Chief Minister said the sacrifices of the state's legendary leaders would always occupy a place of honour in history. In a message shared on social media, he remarked that the spirit of revolution can never be extinguished and compared it to the eternal flames that symbolize the nation's respect for its heroes.

Leader of Opposition Babulal Marandi also paid homage to the martyrs and highlighted the historical significance of the Santhal Hul movement. He said the uprising, which began in the Santhal Pargana region in 1855, emerged as a massive revolt against the exploitative policies of British colonial administration and the injustice faced by tribal communities.

Marandi emphasized that the movement was led by Sidhu Murmu, Kanhu Murmu, Chand Murmu, Bairab Murmu, Phulo Murmu, and Jhano Murmu, who fought courageously to protect their land, forests, water resources, cultural identity, and traditional rights. He stated that the rebellion not only challenged colonial rule but also became a powerful symbol of freedom, self-respect, and social justice.

The leaders agreed that the sacrifices made by the Hul martyrs continue to inspire present and future generations to defend their constitutional rights, preserve their cultural heritage, and stand united against injustice. Hul Diwas remains a significant occasion in Jharkhand, reflecting the state's deep respect for the courage and legacy of the Santhal freedom fighters whose struggle occupies a distinguished place in India's freedom movement.

Ex-bank manager, pvt firm CMD get 7-year RI for housing loan fraud

CHENNAI

A special Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) court in Chennai sentenced a former senior bank official, and a private company chief to seven years of rigorous imprisonment in a bank fraud case involving the fraudulent sanction and disbursement of housing loans.

The scam caused a loss of more than Rs 5.29 crore to a public sector bank, Central Bank of India, the agency said on Tuesday.

The court also slapped a fine on the private firm in connection with the case.

The court on Monday convicted and sentenced Deepak V Menon, then Senior Manager of the Central Bank of India's Triplicane branch in Chennai, to seven years of rigorous imprisonment along with a fine of Rs 65,000.

The court also sentenced B Sivaganesan, Chief Managing Director of Sree Sasthru Associates Kadanthetti Pvt Ltd, to seven years of rigorous imprisonment and imposed a fine of Rs 1.17 lakh. The company was also fined Rs 26,000 in the case.

The case was registered by the CBI on April 29, 2009, following a complaint from the Central Bank of India. In the complaint, it was alleged that 28 housing loans were fraudulently sanctioned and disbursed between 2006 and 2007 on the basis of forged and fabricated documents.

During the investigation, the CBI found that the fraudulent transactions resulted in outstanding dues exceeding Rs 5.29 crore as of February 2010.After completing the probe, the agency filed a charge sheet on June 30, 2010, against four accused, including bank official Menon, Sivaganesan, the company, and a private individual, S Vaidyanathan.

During the course of the trial, Vaidyanathan died, and the proceedings against him were abated.

After examining the evidence and hearing the arguments, the special CBI court found the remaining accused guilty and awarded the sentences.

Maharashtra TET paper leak: Mastermind's wife arrested

PATNA

The investigation into the alleged Maharashtra Teacher Eligibility Test (TET) paper leak has gathered pace with the arrest of Suman Kumari, the wife of the alleged mastermind, Bijendra Gupta, from Patna.

Police are questioning her over her suspected role in the examination paper leak and related financial transactions.

According to information shared by the Maharashtra Police and Patna Police sources, Suman Kumari was arrested in Patna and is currently being interrogated.

Investigators suspect that Suman Kumari played a role in handling financial transactions linked to the alleged paper leak operation.

Police also believe she remained in contact with her husband, Bijendra Gupta, and other members of the alleged network after the TET question paper was leaked.

Her interrogation is expected to help investigators trace the flow of money and identify other individuals connected to the case.

Before Suman Kumari's arrest, Maharashtra Police had taken three other accused, Rajiv Shah and Akash Kumar from Patna, and Dheeraj Kumar from Panipat, Haryana, into custody.

According to investigators, interrogation of these three accused pointed to Bijendra Gupta as the alleged mastermind behind the operation.

Police teams are conducting raids in Bihar, Delhi, Haryana, and Agra to apprehend Bijendra Gupta, who is originally from Sherpur village under the Vidyapati police station area of Samastipur district in Bihar.

Investigators believe he played a central role in organising the alleged paper leak network.

Bijendra Gupta's father, Baleshwar Gupta, said the family had lost contact with him years ago after he left the village for further studies in Begusarai.

'Anti-migrant politics spark resurgence of racism'

LONDON

After nearly four decades in Britain, Ali Haydor says there are now days when he wishes he could hide his brown skin. Violent protests erupted in his home city of Southampton after a British-born Sikh, who falsely accused his white victim of a racist attack, was jailed for murder. A video of police handcuffing his dying victim, released alongside the man's sentencing on June 1, sparked outrage and cross-party calls to scrap police guidance on differing treatment by ethnicity. A week later, gangs of masked men went door to door seeking out migrants after a white man in Belfast was stabbed multiple times.

Iran Denies Planned Talks Despite Renewed Doha Diplomatic Efforts

Iran rejected reports of imminent negotiations with the United States despite renewed diplomatic activity surrounding the fragile ceasefire agreement.

DOHA

Fresh uncertainty has emerged over diplomatic efforts to ease tensions between Iran and the United States after Tehran denied that any direct negotiations were scheduled this week, despite reports that delegations from both countries were expected to travel to Doha. The conflicting statements have highlighted the fragile nature of the interim ceasefire that has temporarily halted a four-month conflict but continues to face repeated challenges.

According to the United States administration, President Donald Trump is dispatching his son-in-law Jared Kushner along with special envoy Steve Witkoff to lead the American negotiating team in Qatar. However, Iran's Foreign Ministry spokesperson Esmaeil Baghaei dismissed reports of planned bilateral discussions, stating that although Iran's technical delegation would visit Doha, the trip had no connection with the American delegation.

Baghaei categorically stated that no negotiations with the United States were planned in the coming days at any level. His remarks contrasted sharply with expectations that both sides would resume dialogue aimed at implementing the interim agreement reached on June 17.

The disagreement over whether talks will even take place reflects the continuing fragility of the ceasefire, which was intended to end months of hostilities that severely disrupted maritime trade through the Strait of Hormuz. The conflict has also created significant political and economic challenges, particularly for the United States, as rising energy prices and regional instability continue to dominate international attention.

Under the June 17 memorandum of understanding, both countries agreed to work within a 60-day framework to implement a 14-point roadmap. The agreement called for extending the earlier ceasefire, discussing Iran's nuclear programme, and negotiating a permanent settlement to reduce regional tensions. However, progress has remained slow, with both Washington and Tehran repeatedly accusing each other of violating various provisions of the agreement.

The conflict intensified after military operations involving the United States and Israel against Iran earlier this year. The escalation led to major disruptions in commercial shipping through the Strait of Hormuz, one of the world's most strategically important maritime routes. The narrow waterway normally carries nearly one-fifth of global oil trade, making any disruption a serious concern for international energy markets.

Price manipulation: US DOJ, states reach agreement with egg producers

WASHINGTON

Three of the largest egg producers in the United States have reached a settlement with the U.S. Department of Justice and a coalition of 17 states over allegations that they coordinated to manipulate egg prices, affecting retailers and consumers across the country. The agreement includes financial payments, large-scale food donations, and new compliance measures aimed at preventing similar conduct in the future.

According to the New York Attorney General's office, the settlement resolves an investigation into alleged anti-competitive practices involving Cal-Maine Foods, Versova, and Hickman's Egg Ranch. The authorities claimed the companies worked together over several years to influence a widely used daily egg price index, resulting in artificially higher prices throughout the national market.

South African cities shuttered ahead of anti-migrant protests

DURBAN

Workers stayed home, shops were shut and buses sat idle across South Africa on Tuesday, as fears mounted that planned anti-immigrant marches would descend into violence. Many foreigners from African countries avoided coming to work, and thousands had already fled ahead of Tuesday's deadline, set by the demonstrators for all undocumented migrants to leave.

Most have interpreted the deadline as a physical threat. Xenophobic protests in South Africa have in the past led to violence against immigrants and their property, with little distinction made between those who entered legally or not.

Landlords in the main city Johannesburg and port city of Durban were evicting foreign tenants for fear of their buildings being vandalised, witnesses said.

All these people, they were chased out by their landlords, Mabako Majole, a leader of the Congolese community, said next to a crowd of 100 people sleeping on the street in downtown Durban.

All these people are legal. They have documents. Police and military were deployed to the streets to try to keep order during the marches in several cities, which are expected to attract many thousands of mostly poor or unemployed South Africans.

The state has the duty and obligation to ensure that those that are demonstrating do so peacefully, Deputy National Commissioner for Policing Tebello Mosikili told a news conference.

A year after USAID shutdown, Americans still back foreign development aid

WASHINGTON

A year after the Trump administration dismantled the U.S. Agency for International Development, most Americans still support foreign aid to provide disaster relief, prevent disease outbreaks and improve security, according to a new poll commissioned by the Rockefeller Foundation and released Tuesday.

The poll of 2,022 voters showed Republicans and President Donald Trump's Make America Great Again base were skeptical of foreign aid before getting more details.Nearly all Americans overestimated by far how much Washington spent on such programs, with over a third thinking they accounted for 20% of the annual U.S. budget.

Venezuela Earthquake Survivors Demand Greater Government Relief Efforts

EL JUNQUITO

Public frustration is growing across Venezuela as thousands of survivors continue to wait for government assistance five days after two powerful earthquakes devastated several parts of the country. Rescue operations have become increasingly difficult, with hopes of finding more survivors fading as the confirmed death toll climbed above 1,700. Authorities also reported that nearly 5,000 people have been injured, while hundreds remain displaced after the disaster destroyed homes, businesses, and public infrastructure.

The twin earthquakes, measuring 7.2 and 7.5 in magnitude, struck on Wednesday, causing widespread destruction across multiple regions. Officials said nearly 200 buildings have been completely reduced to rubble, while several hundred more have suffered severe structural damage, leaving thousands of families without safe shelter.

Among those feared dead are as many as 140 people who had recently been deported from the United States, including children. They were reportedly staying at a hotel that collapsed during the powerful tremors, making it one of the deadliest single locations affected by the disaster. Rescue teams continue to search the debris, although the chances of finding additional survivors are diminishing with each passing day.

Experts believe the scale of destruction was worsened by years of inadequate infrastructure maintenance, weak enforcement of building regulations, and poor construction practices. According to disaster specialists, decades of neglect and insufficient oversight left many structures unable to withstand strong seismic activity, contributing significantly to the high number of casualties and injuries.

Frustration mounted across Venezuela as earthquake survivors awaited assistance while the death toll continued rising after devastating tremors

In El Junquito, a mountainous region located about 33 kilometres west of Caracas, residents have expressed disappointment over what they describe as a slow government response. The area, usually a popular weekend destination, has suffered extensive damage, with its commercial centre largely destroyed. During visits to the affected communities, damaged buildings and piles of debris remained visible, while many residents continued to live in temporary shelters.

Local communities have largely relied on volunteers, farmers, and neighbours for food, water, and other essential supplies. Residents say official assistance has been limited, forcing ordinary citizens to organise relief efforts on their own. Many families remain uncertain about when damaged buildings will be inspected or when reconstruction work will begin.

Several displaced residents have established makeshift camps in open spaces despite concerns over nearby unstable structures. Business owner Tony Abreu said he has been living in a tent since the disaster because both his home and shop have been declared unsafe. Like many others, he remains uncertain about when authorities will provide permanent accommodation or begin rebuilding damaged neighbourhoods.

NEW CALEDONIA LOYALISTS EMERGE LARGEST BLOC AFTER ELECTION, LACK MAJORITY

WELLINGTON

New Caledonia's non-independence coalition emerged as the largest bloc in the legislature after the French Pacific territory's provincial elections, but fell short of an outright majority, leaving a small centrist Pacific party in the role of kingmaker, final results showed.

The elections, held on June 28 after repeated delays, were the first provincial vote since 2019 and followed deadly unrest in 2024 over proposed changes to the local electoral roll, exposing the deep strains in France's relationship with New Caledonia and its Indigenous Kanak population.

The French Pacific territory, about 1,500 km (930 miles) east of Australia, has around 270,000 inhabitants, including roughly 41% Melanesian Kanaks and 24% of European origin, mostly French, and has long been split between pro-independence and pro-France camps.

Final results published by the High Commission showed Sonia Backes' loyalist alliance, Les Loyalistes-Le Rassemblement, will hold 24 seats of the 54 seats in the Congress, while the pro-indepence block of UC-FLNKS, UNI-Palika and Dynamique Autochtone won 26 seats.

The balance sits with centrist party L'Eveil oceanien, with four seats. L'Eveil oceanien is expected to be pivotal in deciding whether the next executive leans loyalist or can be shaped by a broader deal.

Under New Caledonia's system, Congress next elects the government by proportional representation.

Taiwan's president urged graduating military cadets to resist espionage, defend democracy, and strengthen national security against external threats.

Taiwan President Urges Cadets To Resist Chinese Espionage Threats

TAIPEI

Taiwan President Lai Ching-te has called on graduating military cadets to remain vigilant against Chinese espionage and foreign influence, urging them to safeguard the island's democracy, freedom, and national sovereignty. Addressing a graduation ceremony at the historic Fu Hsing Kang College on Tuesday, Lai emphasized the growing security challenges facing Taiwan and stressed the importance of loyalty within the armed forces.

The president's remarks come amid increasing tensions between Taiwan and China, with Taipei reporting a steady rise in espionage cases allegedly linked to Beijing, particularly within Taiwan's military. Chinese military activity around the self-governed island has also intensified in recent years, contributing to growing concerns over regional stability and national security.

Speaking to the graduating cadets, Lai said that a soldier's honor is rooted in loyalty to the nation and its democratic values. He warned that Taiwan's armed forces continue to face threats ranging from infiltration and sabotage to espionage and attempts to create divisions within society. He urged the graduates to clearly distinguish between friends and adversaries while remaining committed to protecting the country's sovereignty.

Lai stated that resisting all forms of pressure, coercion, and temptation is essential for defending Taiwan's security. He encouraged the young officers to remain alert to attempts at infiltration and to uphold democratic principles while carrying out their military responsibilities.The president also reaffirmed Taiwan's long-standing political position by stating that the Republic of China, Taiwan's official name, and the People's Republic of China are separate entities and are not subordinate to one another. The statement reflects the government's continued rejection of Beijing's claim that Taiwan is part of its territory.

Yamaha confirms Quartararo and Rins departure

ASSEN

In a major shake-up for the MotoGP paddock, Yamaha has officially announced that both Fabio Quartararo and Alex Rins will depart from the team at the conclusion of the 2026 season. The decision marks the end of a significant chapter for the Japanese manufacturer as it seeks to overhaul its struggling racing program.

Fabio Quartararo, who joined Yamaha in 2019, has been the face of the team for years. During his tenure, the 26-year-old French rider achieved immense success, securing 11 race victories, 32 podium finishes, and the prestigious 2021 MotoGP world championship title. Meanwhile, Alex Rins joined the squad in 2024 following a challenging period with Honda, but both riders have found it difficult to reclaim the team's former glory.

Yamaha has faced immense technical hurdles recently, resulting in a notable lack of competitiveness on the track. Since the start of 2024, the duo has managed only a single podium finish, which came courtesy of Quartararo at last year's Spanish Grand Prix. The current 2026 campaign has proven even more difficult, with the team languishing near the bottom of the standings with only 64 points. With both riders currently outside the top ten in the championship rankings, the manufacturer is now looking toward a fresh start. This split signals a strategic pivot for Yamaha as they hope to rebuild their machinery and return to the front of the grid in future seasons. Fans now eagerly await news on who will replace these two talents.

Yamaha will part ways with Fabio Quartararo and Alex Rins after the 2026 season to overhaul its program

Swann: Sooryavanshi is cricket's toughest new talent

NEW DELHI

As England prepares for the upcoming T20I series against India, former spinner Graeme Swann has issued a stern warning to the English bowlers regarding the challenge of facing teenager Vaibhav Sooryavanshi. Swann believes the young left-hander is currently one of the most difficult batters to contain in world cricket, noting he has successfully navigated every test faced thus far.

While acknowledging that video analysis is common in modern sports, Swann admitted that preparing for a talent like Sooryavanshi is remarkably difficult. "He is still new to international cricket, but he has already played two IPL seasons," Swann noted. This means there is plenty of footage, yet the former spinner pointed out that no bowler has truly discovered a reliable method to dismiss him consistently.

However, Swann sees a glimmer of hope in England's pace spearhead, Jofra Archer. Given their time together during the IPL, Archer holds a unique edge. "He has seen Sooryavanshi from the dugout, bowled to him in the nets, and watched him closely," said Swann. He believes Archer's firsthand experience, combined with his natural express pace, might provide the best opportunity to unsettle the young prodigy.

Despite this potential advantage, Swann remains realistic about the task ahead. He emphasized that regardless of the bowler's reputation or the game plan formulated, Sooryavanshi has consistently found answers. England enters this series knowing that while Archer may have the insight, containing this fearless rising star remains a massive hurdle for the entire team.

Aston Martin plans upgrades to retain Alonso

LONDON

Adrian Newey is banking on a major performance upgrade at the Hungarian Grand Prix to convince Fernando Alonso to extend his Aston Martin career through 2027

Adrian Newey, the team principal at Aston Martin, is banking on a massive car upgrade to convince Fernando Alonso to continue racing through 2027. Alonso, who turns 45 next month, remains the oldest driver on the Formula One grid and is currently seeking tangible proof that his team is moving in the right direction.

The upcoming improvements are scheduled for the Hungarian Grand Prix on July 26. Newey believes that if the car performs as expected, Alonso will feel motivated to remain in the cockpit. He highlighted that the veteran's experience and ability to guide technical development make him a vital asset for the struggling squad.

Aston Martin has endured a brutal start to the 2026 season, managing only a single point across eight races. The team has been held back by an uncompetitive engine and an overweight car. In response, Newey is introducing a package that features a new nose, revised aerodynamic surfaces, and significant weight savings in the chassis and gearbox. While the core structure remains largely the same, the team hopes these changes will bring them closer to the weight limit.

Despite the optimism, Newey remains cautious about predicting specific results because the team's simulation tools are still being refined. He also addressed recent health challenges that had occupied his attention, noting he is feeling better now. Ultimately, the performance in Hungary will be the defining factor in whether the legendary Spanish driver chooses to extend his storied career for another year.

Harmanpreet Kaur leads India's gold quest

MUMBAI

The BCCI has officially announced a 15-player squad for the 2026 Asian Games, with star batter Harmanpreet Kaur set to lead the charge. India enters the tournament in Aichi-Nagoya, Japan, as the defending champions, eager to repeat their historic gold medal performance from the previous edition in Hangzhou.

The selection committee has maintained consistency, sticking primarily to the group that competed in the ICC Women's T20 World Cup. The only adjustment is the inclusion of wicketkeeper-batter G. Kamalini, who replaces Yastika Bhatia. The batting lineup remains formidable, featuring explosive talents like Shafali Verma and Jemimah Rodrigues alongside Vice-captain Smriti Mandhana.

The team's balance is bolstered by versatile all-rounders, with Deepti Sharma anchoring the middle order. The bowling attack looks equally balanced, combining the pace of Renuka Singh Thakur and Arundhati Reddy with the spin expertise of Radha Yadav. Notably, off-spinner Shreyanka Patil has been named in the squad, though her participation remains subject to passing a final fitness test following an ankle injury that sidelined her during the World Cup.

Cricket's return to the Asian Games has been highly celebrated, marking its fourth appearance since its 2010 debut. With a mix of seasoned veterans and rising stars, India looks well-positioned to retain its title. The tournament is scheduled to take place from September 19 to October 4, and the squad is ready to defend their gold medal on the international stage.

Yuvraj Singh honors Ben Stokes' iconic career

NEW DELHI

Former Indian cricket legend Yuvraj Singh has shared an emotional tribute to Ben Stokes following the English star's retirement from international cricket. Stokes stepped away after his final Test match against New Zealand, concluding an extraordinary 15-year journey that redefined the role of an all-rounder.

Yuvraj took to media to celebrate Stokes, pointing to specific legendary performances as proof of his greatness. He famously cited Stokes' unforgettable World Cup final heroics and the incredible, match-winning 135 not out at Headingley. However, Yuvraj emphasized that it was Stokes' character, not just his records that made him truly special.

"I know what it feels like to be on top of the world one day and at your absolute lowest the next," Yuvraj wrote. He praised Stokes for his transparency regarding mental health battles and his ability to persevere through personal tragedy, including the loss of his father. For Yuvraj, this resilience is what separates "good" players from the "truly great."

Stokes leaves the international stage with two World Cup winner's medals and a reputation as a captain who inspired his teammates to believe in the impossible. Yuvraj concluded his heartfelt note by thanking the Englishman for his contributions to the sport. "Congratulations on an epic career! The game will miss you, Ben. Enjoy the next chapter. You've earned it!" he added, marking the end of an era for one of cricket's most fearless competitors.

Joe Root honors Ben Stokes' diamond career

NEW DELHI

Former England captain Joe Root paid an emotional tribute to Ben Stokes after the legendary all-rounder retired from international cricket following a remarkable 15-year career. Stokes bowed out after his final match against New Zealand at Trent Bridge, leaving behind a legacy as one of England's greatest match-winners. Reflecting on their journey together, Root praised Stokes' ability to thrive under immense pressure, saying, "You can only make diamonds in pressure." He recalled unforgettable performances, including Stokes' unbeaten 135 at Headingley in the 2019 Ashes and his match-defining role in England's 2019 ODI World Cup triumph. Root also credited Stokes for inspiring a generation of cricketers and transforming England's Test side alongside coach Brendon McCullum through fearless, attacking cricket.

Anmol Ekka to lead junior hockey squad

NEW DELHI

Hockey India has officially revealed its 22-member junior men's squad for the upcoming exposure tour of Belgium, taking place from July 5 to July 18, 2026. This trip marks the first major test for the team under their newly appointed head coach, Frederic Soyez, as they prepare for the vital FIH Hockey Men's Junior Asia Cup later this year.

Defender Anmol Ekka will captain the side, bringing leadership to a group focused on refining their tactical discipline and team chemistry. The roster is bolstered by four players - Ekka, Adrohit Ekka, Ajeet Yadav, and Rohit Kullu, who were instrumental in securing a bronze medal at the 2025 FIH Men's Junior World Cup in Tamil Nadu. Their experience will be crucial as India prepares to face high-level European competition.

During this intense tour, the team will play two matches against Austria, two against hosts Belgium, and one each against Germany and the Netherlands. Coach Soyez emphasized that the goal is not just about results, but about understanding the rigorous demands of international hockey. He aims to strengthen the group's unity while testing new tactical combinations.

By pitting young talent against some of the world's best hockey nations, Hockey India hopes to bridge the gap between domestic development and elite international standards. With a blend of seasoned junior players and fresh faces, the squad is eager to prove themselves on foreign soil and build the necessary momentum to compete for top honors at the upcoming Asian continental championship.

Pujara: Iyer must deliver in England conditions

NEW DELHI

As India prepares for a high-stakes T20I series in England, former star Cheteshwar Pujara has highlighted the immense pressure facing newly appointed Captain Shreyas Iyer. Following in the footsteps of legends like Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma, Iyer is tasked with achieving a rare series win on English soil, a feat that Pujara describes as a significant challenge for the young leader.

Iyer's return to the T20I setup after a two-year hiatus adds another layer of complexity. While Pujara voiced full confidence in Iyer's tactical abilities, citing his proactive leadership and success with the Punjab Kings in the IPL, he emphasized that the true measure of success will be Iyer's individual contribution with the bat. "The real test will be with his batting," Pujara noted. "He must prove himself in the middle order and deliver under English conditions."

The former batter also touched on the buzz surrounding teenage sensation Vaibhav Sooryavanshi. Despite the youngster's rising fame, Pujara expects him to remain sidelined for now. He argued that India's established top-order lineup is currently too strong to justify an immediate debut for the newcomer.

As the team gears up for the tour, all eyes will be on whether Iyer can balance the demands of his first international leadership role with the need to score runs. With the team aiming for a series victory, Iyer's ability to perform under pressure will be the defining story of this tour.

Lucy Hamilton ready for T20 World semi-final

LONDON

Australia's young pace bowler Lucy Hamilton is entering the ICC Women's T20 World Cup semi-final with a major boost in self-belief. The 20-year-old credits her recent disciplined performances, especially a high-pressure match against India at Lord's, for preparing her to face the West Indies in the upcoming knockout clash.

Despite her limited international experience, Hamilton has thrived while opening the bowling. Reflecting on her time on cricket's biggest stage, she admitted that while the atmosphere at Lord's brought natural nerves, the experience solidified her readiness for big games. "I took heaps of confidence out of the India game," Hamilton said. She believes that surviving the intensity of that matchup has made her feel fully prepared for the bigger challenge of a semi-final at The Oval.

Hamilton is pleased with the short turnaround between games, noting that the team is eager to keep their current winning momentum alive. She took the time to visit The Oval early to study the outfield and facilities, emphasizing that the team's focus remains on adapting quickly to changing conditions.

The Aussie fast bowler is well aware of the threat posed by the West Indies. She anticipates a fearless opponent that has nothing to lose, but she remains confident in Australia's ability to execute their own style of play. Australia is now just one win away from reaching Sunday's final at Lord's, and the squad is hungry to continue their pursuit of the championship trophy.

Government releases funds for struggling MSMEs

NEW DELHI

The Indian government has released Rs 1 lakh crore to help small businesses survive the ongoing Gulf crisis. Many MSMEs faced severe cash shortages due to shipping delays and supply chain issues caused by regional tensions. To prevent job losses, this relief comes through the latest Emergency Credit Line Guarantee Scheme. Officials praise the resilience of local businesses, noting they are already finding new export markets. Looking ahead, the government plans to create better financing options to support exporters long-term. This crucial support aims to keep these vital industries growing despite difficult global economic conditions.

Gold and silver prices extend recent losses

NEW DELHI

Gold and silver prices dropped again as investors remain worried about global instability and future interest rate hikes. Growing tensions in West Asia and a cautious outlook from the U.S. Federal Reserve are driving traders away from precious metals. Gold futures on the exchange fell, reflecting weak global market sentiment. Analysts note that markets are bracing for potential rate increases, which typically lower the appeal of non-yielding assets like gold. Meanwhile, silver also faced selling pressure as it struggled to hold key price levels. Investors are now watching upcoming U.S. economic data.

Government extends deadline for GST appeals

NEW DELHI

The Finance Ministry has extended the deadline for filing appeals to the Goods and Services Tax Appellate Tribunal until July 31. This move comes after taxpayers faced technical glitches on the GSTAT portal caused by an overwhelming rush of filings. Nearly 30,000 appeals were submitted in just the last two weeks, causing significant system congestion. The government urges businesses to file early rather than waiting for the final date. Meanwhile, India's tax revenue continues to climb, with recent data showing strong growth in both GST and direct tax collections despite ongoing global economic challenges.

OYO's IPO faces major legal financial risks

OYO has filed an updated IPO prospectus, highlighting significant operational risks, international market reliance, and ongoing legal disputes.

MUMBAI

Hospitality giant OYO, under parent company Prism Hotels and Resorts, has filed an updated draft red herring prospectus (DRHP) ahead of its highly anticipated initial public offering. While the company's recent financial turnaround has caught investor attention, the filing reveals significant legal and operational risks that potential shareholders must carefully consider.

A primary concern is the company's growing reliance on international markets. Revenue from operations outside India has surged, now accounting for nearly 84 percent of its total intake. The United States, United Kingdom, and Europe combined generate the vast majority of OYO's revenue, leaving the firm heavily exposed to overseas market fluctuations. In contrast, India's contribution to the total revenue has dropped to roughly 16 percent.

Furthermore, a long-standing legal battle with Zostel Hospitality continues to loom over the IPO. The dispute, which dates back to a failed acquisition attempt in 2015, could force OYO to issue up to 7 percent of its shareholding to Zostel or pay a massive cash settlement if a final ruling goes against them.

Finally, the document clarifies that recent profits are not purely from operating performance. While the firm reported net profits for the last two years, these were heavily boosted by deferred tax credits. In fact, before factoring in these tax benefits, the company actually recorded a loss for the 2025 fiscal year.

These disclosures highlight that OYO's path to long-term profitability remains tied to complex international and legal factors.

Maharashtra FDA suspends 6 restaurant licenses

The Maharashtra FDA has suspended the licenses of six Mumbai eateries, including Nariman Point's Flint & Waarsa, following health violations like pest infestations and expired food.

MUMBAI

The Maharashtra Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has suspended the business licenses of six restaurants and eateries following a rigorous statewide enforcement drive. Inspections conducted between June 26 and June 28 revealed severe health and safety violations, ranging from unhygienic conditions to the storage of expired food items.

Among the establishments facing action is Flint & Waarsa in Nariman Point, where officials discovered misbranded products. Following an inspection on June 27, authorities seized stock and destroyed over 16,000 rupees worth of expired food. Other affected venues are located in Borivali, Santacruz, Andheri, Bandra, and Bhandup.

The raids painted a concerning picture of kitchen hygiene at these locations. Reports highlighted the presence of pests like cockroaches and rats, alongside improper raw food storage and failing refrigeration systems. Furthermore, several businesses were found to be operating without mandatory documentation, and staff members had not undergone required health check-ups. The FDA also noted that these establishments failed to provide proper mechanisms for handling customer complaints.

This crackdown was part of a broader safety initiative that saw 31 inspections across the state.

In related operations, the FDA seized banned items like gutkha and pan masala worth nearly 35 lakh rupees, resulting in 19 arrests and the seizure of three vehicles.

The department has vowed to maintain this strict enforcement to ensure all food establishments meet safety standards, promising continued legal action against those who put public health at risk.

Airlines slash mishandled baggage rates by 23 percent

NEW DELHI

Airlines have successfully slashed mishandled baggage rates by 23 percent over the last year, thanks to a major push toward digital transformation. Despite these improvements, the issue remains a significant financial drain, costing the global aviation industry 6.3 billion dollars annually.

Reports highlights how real-time data, AI-driven routing, and biometric systems are helping airlines better manage luggage. However, the sheer volume of global travel, with 5 billion passengers recorded in 2025 continues to outpace existing infrastructure. Last year, 24 million bags were still mishandled.

The financial impact is stark - each mishandled bag costs an average of 260 dollars. Because airline profit margins are slim, averaging just 8 dollars per passenger, losing a single bag wipes out the profit from more than 30 seats, while five lost bags can erase the profit of an entire flight.

Delayed bags remain the primary concern, responsible for 70 percent of total costs due to recovery and delivery expenses. Transfers between flights continue to be the most common point of failure, accounting for 39 percent of all cases.

Mumbai recorded 80,221 property registrations in the first half of 2026, marking its strongest performance since 2013.

INDIA RECORDS STRONGEST HALF-YEAR REAL ESTATE

NEW DELHI

Mumbai's real estate market has reached a significant milestone, recording its strongest first-half performance since 2013. According to reports, the city saw 80,221 property registrations in the first half of 2026, a 6 percent increase compared to the same period last year.

The surge in activity also provided a boost to state coffers, with stamp duty collections rising 4 percent year-on-year to 6,968 crore rupees, also the highest level seen in 14 years. June alone is expected to see 13,302 registrations, a 15 percent jump from June 2025, which would mark the best June performance in over a decade.

Market experts attribute this growth to sustained confidence among homebuyers. Shishir Baijal, Chairman and Managing Director of Knight Frank India, noted that the market's resilience is particularly impressive given the high performance of the previous year.The data also points to an interesting trend in the types of homes being purchased. While stamp duty revenue grew at a slightly slower pace than the number of registrations, analysts suggest this indicates a shift toward mid-market properties. This confirms that demand is becoming more broad-based, moving beyond just high-value luxury transactions. As registrations continue to outpace previous peaks, Mumbai's residential sector appears to be entering a period of steady, reliable growth driven by genuine end-user demand rather than speculative investment.

India's water sector offers huge investment: Reports

NEW DELHI

India is facing a critical water challenge that could see demand double the available supply by 2030. To address this, reports reveals a massive 20 lakh crore rupee investment opportunity over the next decade. These funds are set to flow into vital areas, including water treatment, wastewater recycling, and advanced sewage infrastructure.

Although India holds nearly 18 percent of the global population, it possesses only about 4 percent of the world's freshwater. This imbalance, exacerbated by rapid urbanization, industrial growth, and the depletion of groundwater, has turned water security into an urgent national priority.

Government initiatives like the Jal Jeevan Mission, AMRUT 2.0, and Namami Gange are currently leading the charge to improve water access and treatment. Sewage treatment remains the largest untapped segment, with a daily shortfall of over 72,000 million litres. Furthermore, the rise of high-tech industries such as semiconductor manufacturing, data centres, and green hydrogen production is creating an urgent new demand for ultra-pure water. These combined pressures are transforming the water sector into one of the most critical and investment-ready landscapes in the country's infrastructure ecosystem.

India faces water crisis investment boom

NEW DELHI: India is heading toward a severe water crisis. By 2030, demand for water will likely double what is currently available. With only 4% of the world's freshwater, India struggles to support 18% of the global population. This scarcity has created a massive Rs 20 lakh crore investment opportunity. Companies are now rushing to build better water treatment, recycling, and sewage systems. Projects like Jal Jeevan Mission are leading the charge. As industries expand, the need for clean water is no longer optional. This shift promises a sustainable future, turning a national challenge into a huge economic engine.

India approves major semiconductor mission expansion

NEW DELHI

The Finance Ministry's Expenditure Finance Committee (EFC) has officially approved a substantial 1.25 lakh crore rupee outlay for the India Semiconductor Mission (ISM) 2.0. This major financial commitment marks a significant step forward in the country's ambition to become a global leader in electronics manufacturing, with the proposal now heading to the Union Cabinet for final authorization.

This new allocation represents a massive jump from the 76,000 crore rupees provided for the original ISM, which successfully facilitated the approval of 10 semiconductor facilities across chip fabrication, assembly, and design. The expanded phase 2.0 aims to go beyond basic manufacturing by building a robust, self-reliant ecosystem. It is designed to support the entire supply chain, including specialty chemicals, industrial gases, essential capital equipment, and local MSMEs.

The government's strategic goal is ambitious: to meet 75 percent of domestic semiconductor demand by 2030.

IRDAI to tackle bank insurance miss-selling

MUMBAI

The Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (IRDAI) is set to roll out strict new guidelines aimed at curbing the miss-selling of insurance products by banks. Chairperson Ajay Seth announced the move, emphasizing the regulator's commitment to protecting policyholders from inappropriate sales practices.

At a media briefing, Seth also provided updates on the much-anticipated 'Bima Sugam' digital platform. The initiative is on track for a September launch, beginning with motor insurance, followed by health and term-life products. This platform is part of a broader push to make insurance more transparent and accessible.

The regulator is also developing a new framework focused on "product suitability," which will offer clear, illustrative guidance to ensure customers are sold policies that actually meet their needs, rather than just hitting sales targets. This follows recent moves to tighten executive pay, which now links the bonuses of top management to customer-centric metrics like claims settlement speed and grievance redressal.

On the investment front, Seth confirmed that the regulator is processing applications for foreign insurers looking to increase their stakes in Indian firms, following the government's decision to allow 100 percent foreign direct investment (FDI) in the sector under the automatic route. While LIC remains under a separate 20 percent cap, the broader insurance market including brokers and intermediaries is now fully open to overseas investors, signaling a major shift toward greater international participation and strengthened regulatory oversight across the industry.

Tamil Nadu launches huge rural internet project

CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu is taking a major leap toward digital equality. The state government has officially launched a new tender to purchase 2.5 lakh Optical Network Terminals (ONTs). This move aims to finally bring high-speed broadband to rural homes, schools, hospitals, and local government offices across the state.

For years, thousands of villages have been connected by underground fibre-optic cables under the BharatNet Phase II project. However, this massive infrastructure remained largely inactive because the necessary hardware to connect individual buildings was missing. These new devices will act as the crucial link, converting fibre signals into usable internet for everyday users.

According to the Tamil Nadu FibreNet Corporation (TANFINET), the winning company will not just supply these devices but will also handle installation and maintenance for four years. This long-term support ensures that rural residents enjoy consistent, reliable service without frequent technical interruptions.

This project is a game changer for rural communities. With faster internet, students will access better online learning tools, while families can use telemedicine and digital banking from home. Beyond individual benefits, government officials believe this initiative will attract new businesses to smaller towns, creating jobs and reducing the digital gap between cities and villages. By turning dormant cables into a functional network, Tamil Nadu is ensuring that the digital future reaches every corner of the state, empowering citizens and boosting the local economy through seamless connectivity and improved access to essential modern services.

EMPOWERING MEGHALAYA'S VISIONARIES

Sangma highlights entrepreneurship for economic growth

SHILLONG

Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad K. Sangma has identified entrepreneurship as the vital foundation for the state's long-term economic growth. Speaking at the launch of the "Achievers of the Month" program in Shillong, Sangma emphasized that while the government provides the necessary infrastructure and policies, it is the vision and resilience of local entrepreneurs that truly drive the economy forward.

The new initiative aims to celebrate success stories across diverse sectors, including agriculture, sports, and music, providing a platform for individuals to share their journeys and inspire others. Sangma highlighted that the government's role is to cultivate an ecosystem where grassroots ideas can evolve into successful enterprises. He noted that existing support programs have already helped many local ventures expand their reach from small rural operations to markets in major cities.

Acknowledging the inherent risks and sleepless nights involved in building a business, the Chief Minister urged aspiring entrepreneurs to stay focused and resilient despite inevitable setbacks. To further champion this cause, the government has announced that July will be dedicated to honoring entrepreneurs through storytelling sessions, public outreach, and social media campaigns.

During the event, 50 entrepreneurs were honored for their significant achievements.

This initiative is set to continue monthly, recognizing excellence in various fields to foster a statewide culture of innovation.

By bringing these personal successes into the public eye, the government hopes to dismantle barriers and demonstrate that sustainable economic transformation is within reach for those willing to innovate.

Former IOCL chairman hails energy resilience

NEW DELHI

India's success in maintaining stable fuel supplies during the recent Strait of Hormuz conflict was not a result of emergency measures, but the culmination of a decade of strategic energy planning. According to former Indian Oil Corporation Limited (IOCL) Chairman B. Ashok, the country's ability to swiftly pivot its crude oil import strategy highlights the success of long-term infrastructure and diplomatic investments.

"This rapid adjustment was not an overnight reaction, it was the result of infrastructure and relationships built over a substantial period," Ashok noted. Prior to the conflict, nearly 45 percent of India's crude imports transited through the Strait of Hormuz. In just a few weeks of disruption, India successfully increased its supply from non-Hormuz regions to 70 percent. Ashok credited these sustained, long-term investments in refining capacity and international energy partnerships with ensuring India's energy security remained intact despite global geopolitical volatility. By building these robust reliability mechanisms over time, the industry was able to effectively navigate a potential crisis.

Morocco defeats Netherlands to reach round 16

Morocco secured a dramatic penalty shootout victory over the Netherlands, advancing to the World Cup round of 16

MONTERREY

Morocco is heading to the World Cup round of 16 after an incredible comeback victory against the Netherlands. The tense match, held at Monterrey Stadium, ended in a dramatic penalty shootout that secured Morocco's spot in the next stage of the tournament.

The Netherlands initially took the lead through Cody Gakpo's strike in the 72nd minute. However, the African side refused to give up. Their persistence paid off in the 91st minute when Issa Diop scored a crucial equalizer, forcing the game into extra time. Following a scoreless extra half-hour, the match moved to penalties. Despite trailing early, Morocco kept their cool as the Dutch missed three attempts, allowing Ismael Saibari to seal the win.

Manager Mohamed Ouahbi credited the victory to his team's deep self-belief and tactical identity. He noted that the squad's historic performance in the 2022 World Cup fundamentally changed their mentality, helping players and fans alike realize their true potential.

Looking ahead, Morocco will face co-host Canada in Houston on July 4. While fans are excited, Ouahbi remains grounded. He warned that the match against Canada will be a difficult challenge and not the "walk in the park" some might expect. He emphasized that his team must stay focused and play their best football to continue their journey.

Additionally, Ouahbi thanked the local Mexican fans for their passionate support, promising that Morocco will provide the same hospitality when they co-host the 2030 World Cup.

Ronald Koeman faces an uncertain future as Dutch coach following the Netherlands' early World Cup exit after a heartbreaking penalty shootout loss to Morocco

"I have not resigned yet, but I am going to reflect on my future," Koeman told reporters after the match. He explained that the pain of the defeat was still fresh and he needed time to process the early departure before making any firm decisions about his role.

The match appeared to be in the Netherlands' grasp after Cody Gakpo scored a brilliant goal in the 72nd minute. However, Morocco pushed hard and found a late equalizer in the 91st minute through Issa Diop. During the following penalty shootout, three Dutch players - Justin Kluivert, Quinten Timber, and Crysencio Summerville failed to convert their shots, handing the victory to Morocco.

Koeman defended his tactical choice to play with five defenders, arguing that it helped stabilize the team defensively compared to earlier games.

Despite the criticism, he insisted he would make the same decision again. However, he admitted that his team struggled to create enough attacking threats and lacked the final pass needed to win.

As the Netherlands once again faces the disappointment of missing out on a first-ever World Cup title, the team must now look toward an uncertain rebuilding period starting with their coach's looming decision.

Paraguay eliminates Germany from World Cup

FOXBOROUGH

Paraguay pulled off one of the biggest shocks in tournament history, eliminating four-time champions Germany in a tense penalty shootout at Boston Stadium. The historic win saw the South American side reach the last 16 of the 2026 FIFA World Cup after a 1-1 stalemate in regular time.

Julio Enciso gave Paraguay a dream start, finding the net in the 42nd minute. Germany, known for their resilience, fought back in the second half when Kai Havertz headed home a precise Florian Wirtz cross to equalize. Despite Germany's best efforts to push for a winner, including a header from Jonathan Tah that was later disallowed, the teams remained locked at 1-1.

The match shifted to a nerve-wracking penalty shootout. Germany, who had never lost a World Cup shootout before, struggled early as Havertz had his attempt saved.

The shootout swung back and forth with missed chances and clutch saves from both keepers. While German veteran Manuel Neuer performed heroics to keep his team's hopes alive by saving a crucial strike, Germany ultimately faltered.

After Paraguay missed two chances to seal the victory, Jose Canale finally held his nerve, burying the third match-winning spot-kick to spark wild celebrations for the Paraguayan squad. The defeat marks a heartbreaking exit for Germany, while Paraguay celebrates a monumental victory, proving once again that in the World Cup, nothing is ever guaranteed.

Oliver Kahn praises Messi and Ronaldo's rivalry

NEW DELHI

German football icon Oliver Kahn has paid tribute to the legendary rivalry between Lionel Messi and Cristiano Ronaldo. Speaking as part of the FIFA World Cup 2026 expert panel, Kahn described their nearly two-decade-long competition as a unique phenomenon that elevated the sport to heights that may never be seen again.

Kahn emphasized that the greatness of Messi and Ronaldo was defined by their actions rather than words. "Their rivalry was built on performances," he noted, explaining that the two superstars consistently pushed each other to improve every single season. Their rare combination of extreme talent, relentless consistency, and incredible longevity has set a benchmark for future generations of players.

While the duo has battled intensely at the club level, they have never faced each other in a World Cup match. With the 2026 tournament likely being the final stage for both, fans are still hoping to see one last epic encounter.

Kahn also reflected on his own legendary career, specifically his 2002 World Cup performance where he became the only goalkeeper to ever win the Golden Ball. Despite the immense honor, he admitted that the pain of losing the final persists, stating he would trade that personal award for a winner's trophy. Offering advice to young players, Kahn urged them to stop fearing pressure and instead embrace it. He reminded them that, on the world's biggest stage, staying focused for every single second is what determines a player's legacy.

NEYMAR responds to viral WC prediction

TEXAS

Brazilian superstar Neymar proved he could impact the game even from the sidelines following Brazil's dramatic 2-1 comeback victory over Japan in the World Cup Round of 32. Shortly after the final whistle, the forward took to social media to aim a cheeky jab at German economist Joachim Klement, whose statistical model had famously predicted that Japan would eliminate the five-time champions.

Neymar's post, "Sr. Joachim Klement... favor tentar na proxima copa," which translates to "Mr. Joachim Klement... please try again at the next World Cup," quickly went viral. While the star did not play, he remained a key topic of discussion regarding team strategy. Head coach Carlo Ancelotti revealed post-match that he had specific plans for Neymar, noting, "I talked to Ney, if we don't draw, he'd come on at 60 minutes. Since we drew, I was preserving him for the 30 minutes of extra time."

The match itself was an instant classic. After falling behind to a brilliant solo goal from Kaishu Sano in the 29th minute, Brazil fought back through a Casemiro header in the 56th minute. The game appeared destined for the extra period Ancelotti was preparing for until Gabriel Martinelli struck a dramatic winner in the 95th minute.

WILLIAMS RULED OUT FOR AUSTRIA CLASH

NEW YORK

Spain has received a major boost regarding the fitness of star winger Nico Williams. Following a dangerous tackle from Uruguay's Nicolas de la Cruz during the last match, there were fears that Williams had suffered a tournament-ending groin tear. However, medical tests have confirmed the injury is not that severe.

While Williams will definitely miss Spain's upcoming round-of-32 clash against Austria on July 2, he remains in contention to return to the pitch if the team advances to the round of 16 or the quarter-finals.

The news is a significant relief for both the player and the squad. Williams initially felt devastated, calling the day after the match the "worst day" of his life. However, his outlook has improved following a heart-to-heart with head coach Luis de la Fuente.

Speaking to reporters, De la Fuente shared details of their conversation, focusing on the importance of mental resilience. "I spoke to him about perseverance, about overcoming problems and suffering," the coach explained. He encouraged the young winger to stay positive, noting that such setbacks are part of the journey for a top-level athlete.

This guidance seems to have worked wonders for the player's morale. According to the coach, Williams' attitude has shifted completely since their talk, and he is now focused on his recovery. As Spain prepares for their critical knockout match against Austria, the team will draw strength from the knowledge that their talented winger could return to help them go further.

Gakpo scores emotional tribute in WC

GUADALUPE

In a deeply poignant moment during Round of 32 clash, Dutch star Cody Gakpo delivered an emotional tribute following his opening goal against Morocco. Despite the recent tragic loss of his unborn child, Gakpo took the field and found the back of the net in the 72nd minute. Upon scoring, the forward bowed his head on the pitch before pointing toward the heavens in a moving memory of his son.

The strike was historically significant, marking Gakpo's sixth career goal in the FIFA World Cup. He now stands tied with Dutch icons including Dennis Bergkamp, Wesley Sneijder, and Robin van Persie, sitting just one goal behind all-time leader Johnny Rep. However, the Netherlands faced heartbreak on the scoreboard. While Gakpo's goal looked like a winner, Morocco responded in the 91st minute when Issa Diop soared to power home a dramatic header, forcing the match into extra time.

Japan striker Daizen Maeda apologizes after exit

HOUSTON

Following a heart-wrenching 2-1 defeat against Brazil in the World Cup Round of 32, Japanese striker Daizen Maeda has issued a sincere apology to his nation's fans. Despite a valiant effort that saw Japan take an early lead, a dramatic late goal from Gabriel Martinelli in the 95th minute ultimately ended their tournament journey, leaving players and supporters devastated.

The match began with promise for Japan, as Kaishu Sano stunned the five-time champions with a spectacular 40-yard solo run and goal in the 29th minute. However, Brazil surged back in the second half, with veteran Casemiro leveling the score before Martinelli's last-gasp strike secured the win for the South American giants.

Taking to social media platform, Maeda expressed deep regret for failing to advance past the round, acknowledging the high expectations held by supporters. "I'm truly sorry for not meeting your expectations," he wrote. Despite the disappointment, he highlighted the resilience of the team, noting that the collective effort built by the players, staff, and fans over the three and a half years since the 2022 Qatar tournament remains his greatest pride.

While Japan's quest for a deeper run ends here, the team's performance against one of the world's elite squads was marked by grit and tactical discipline. As Brazil moves forward to face either Ivory Coast or Norway, Maeda's message serves as a reflection of the deep bond between the squad and their loyal followers.
